THE KELIHER TRIAL

NIGHT EDITION GREAT AUDIENCE

WOMAN A WITNESS At Annual Field Day of High School Regiment

At the Trial of "Big Bill" Keliher Today

BOSTON, May 25.—Wilson W. Lockhart, the young man who was accused with George W. Coleman of embezzlement from the national city bank of Cambridge resumed his place on the witness stand today in the trial of William J. Keliher charged with aiding and abetting Coleman. Although Lockhart has admitted making false entries on the books of the bank he will go unpunished, the indictment against him having been not pressed by District Attorney Asa P. French. It was said this action was taken on account of a statement by Coleman that absolved Lockhart from any connection with the defalcation.

Lockhart on cross examination mentioned the names of several women who enjoyed Keliher's hospitality, among them being Miss Lucille Chalney and a Miss Hunt. The district attorney stated that he would call them later. These women, Lockhart said, were all at Keliher's house at Winthrop. There was a distinct hum of interest and a craning of necks when the clerk called "Marguerite Taylor" as the next witness and the spectators saw a demurely dressed, rosy-checked young woman of perhaps twenty-five years walk calmly to the stand. Her big blue eyes looked up expectantly at the tall, stern faced district attorney for the first question which she answered with a fascinating little loss of her blond head on which was perched a gold hat of the prevailing peach basket fashion. Mrs. Taylor said she knew all parties concerned in the case well enough to call them by their first names and the first hour of her testimony was a history of a succession of dinner and supper parties at which wine flowed fast. She remembered a dozen times last fall and winter when she saw Coleman and Keliher start out for New York on the fast trains. The liveliest supper party was on Jan. 8, the night before the city election, when several cases of champagne were opened and like all the other affairs of this nature, Mrs. Taylor said, Keliher paid the bills.

The 29th annual prize drill and field day of the Lowell High School regiment and annual exhibition in callisthenics by the young ladies of the high school were held at Spaulding park this afternoon. This is the day that the boy and girl students look forward to with fond anticipations. In the first place they wish to show their parents and friends the result of the year's work in military drill and dumb-bell and wand and sword practice, while in the second place they strive for honors, both individually and collectively.

There were several thousand people at Spaulding park when the exercises opened, shortly after two o'clock this afternoon. All of the high school students who did not drill were present, together with the parents and relatives of the students, also friends, former pupils of the school, and hundreds of persons who never attended the school. There was a grand display of colors in the grand stand and first and third base bleachers. Very prominent were the pennants bearing the initials of some one of the companies of the boys' regiment. During the company drill the enthusiasts displayed the flag bearing the letter of the favorite company, the sight being a very pretty one.

The members of the boys' regiment met at the high school annex in Paige street at 12:30 o'clock. The privates and non commissioned officers were attired in blue fatigue coats, duck trousers and brown leggings. The commissioned officers wore the regulation blue uniform with an abundance of gold braid and many of the young officers proudly displayed medals on their coats.

The members of the regimental staff were mounted on horses.

COURT IS RUSHING

Today's session of the superior court broke down unexpectedly this noon on account of the sudden illness of Lawyer Haven G. Hill, who was summoned down in his office this morning while preparing to go to court. Mr. Hill was one of the counsel in the case of Riodan vs. Adams, which was to have been tried this afternoon. During the forenoon, while preparing to go to court, he was seized with an attack of illness which necessitated his removal to his home in Fort Hill avenue in a carriage.

This afternoon he was reported as resting comfortably while the physician summoned to attend him gave out the encouraging report that his ailment is not of a serious nature. The list has been so arranged that this case was to have been tried in the morning when the case of the Bigelow Carpet company vs. Burton B. Wiggin et al., a controversy over land rights in Merrimack street, was to be on, and when it was announced that the Riodan case could not be tried court adjourned until tomorrow morning. The case of O'Dowd vs. Stiles which was to have been tried today was settled at the 11th hour.

That Clerk Smith has rushed the court's business to the satisfaction of the most exacting lawyer is evidenced by the fact that so many cases were disposed of in the seven weeks that court has been in session. Of the 38 cases tried, three alone took up two weeks and four days, 35 being tried within five weeks, or over seven a week.

Blowse-Smith Case
The case of Blowse vs. Smith, which was opened yesterday, was concluded this forenoon.

An Auto Case
The next case opened was that of James Dickenson vs. Archibald McClellan for personal injuries, in the sum of $2500. The plaintiff's declaration alleges that on Aug. 3, 1909, while the plaintiff was standing in Washington street, near School, in Boston, he was run into, knocked down and injured by an automobile owned by the defendant. The defendant's answer is a general denial. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant this noon.

Business Rushing
Clerk Ralph Smith in the superior court today, in response to a query by one of the lawyers in attendance at the session, stated that already 124 cases have been disposed of at the present sitting of the court. Of these 38 have been tried, while the others were all settled.

Some of those settled proceeded as far as the short list before the settlement was effected, while in a few cases the witnesses had assembled and the trials were about to begin when the settlement was announced. In one case some of the evidence had been heard.

At two o'clock the exercises of the day were commenced, the first event on the program being the individual prize drill for boys, for which there were two prizes, a gold and silver medal, for the first and second prizes.
The Wand Drill
Next came the wand drill by the second battalion of girls. Then followed the Butt's manual by the boys. The Indian club drill by the first battalion of girls was a very pretty sight and there was a great deal of applause given the young ladies.

The company drill by the boys brought the friends of the various companies into the arena, and as each company came on the field there was a waving of flags bearing the letter of the company which was being drilled.
The hump bell drill of Companies A and C of the girls' battalion was next in order after which came the drill by the company of the boys' regiment, then the sword drill by the girl officers, after which came the regimental parade.
The affair came to a successful close with the awarding of the medals for the individual drill, the red and blue pennants for the first and second best drilled companies, and the sword for the captain of the best appearing company.
The prizes last year were awarded as follows:
Red pennant, first company prize, won by Capt. George Kirby, Co. B.
Blue pennant, second company prize, won by Capt. John A. Quinn, Co. B.
Sword, company of best appearance, won by Capt. Charles Enlund, Co. A.
Gold medal, first individual prize, won by Sergt. Harry D. Brown, Co. A.
Silver medal, second individual prize, won by Corp. Errell A. Teeson, Co. A.
Company Movements
The company movements of the boys' regiment, which was the feature of the day, included the following:
Company formation and report to judges.
Open ranks. Inspection by judges.
Close ranks.
Form column squads and change direction.
Form column of two.
Form column of squads.
Execute to the rear twice.
Form line to the left or right and move forward.
Execute company right.
Manual of Arms—present—right shoulder—left shoulder—charge bayonets—right shoulder—port—order—parade—rest.
Form column of platoons.
Form line to the right or left.
Form column of squads.
Form column of platoons to the front.
Form company to the front.
Form column of squads and change direction.
Form company to the front and move forward.
Form column of squads and execute squads right or left about.
Form company to the right or left.
Report to judges.
The success of the field day was due in a large measure to the excellent work of Capt. Colby T. Kittredge, of the pay department of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, who is the military instructor and Miss Leah A. DeMerritt, instructor of the girls' battalions.
The judges were:
Capt. Phil McNulty, Co. M, 9th Regt. M. V. M. Capt. W. R. Joyce, Co. G, 6th Regt. M. V. M. and Lieut. J. W. Peterson, Co. C, 6th Regt. M. V. M. The officer of the day was Capt. Ralph R. Mollon, Capt. Co. F.
The following members of the high school committee were present: Franklin B. Johnson, Eugene F. Toomey, Edward T. Goward, John H. Byrne and Edmund Simpson. The awards, pennants and medals were awarded by His Honor, Mayor John F. McLean.
Twenty-nine years ago four companies were formed into a battalion under the command of Major Wood. In 1880 a state regiment was formed among the schools outside of Boston with Col. Chase, then of Lowell, at its head. Four years later, however, the state regiment was disbanded, and a regiment of six companies was formed in Lowell. Frederick Lambert had the honor of being its first commander. Since that year the regiment has steadily increased in members and discipline, until now there are eight full companies of well drilled cadets.
Miss Mabel F. Hall became instructor of cadettes and elevation last September. Her work in this position was ably carried on until April when, much to the girls' sorrow, she was obliged on account of ill health to give up her position for the remainder of the year. She had become well liked by everyone, and they regretted to lose her very much. Nevertheless they were very fortunate in securing Miss Leah A. DeMerritt to fill the vacancy for the remaining term. In spite of these interruptions the drill of the girls' battalions has progressed splendidly.
The officers of the regiment have distributed about 2500 soda checks to the members of the different companies. The checks are good at F. J. Campbell's, Tower's corner drug store and the on-sight that will be made on Campbell's soda fountain after the drill can be imagined.

NON SUPPORT CASES WERE NUMEROUS

Judge Hadley Finds Against Husbands Who Refuse to Support Their Wives and Children

Despite the fact that the Civil war is over, every now and then something comes to the surface to indicate that the breach between the north and south has not been healed, and that there is considerable feeling. An evidence of this feeling was brought out very strongly in police court this morning during the hearing of the case of William Horne, charged with threatening James H. Brady.

Both reside in Warrenville. Horne was a former resident of South Carolina, while Brady, though not a veteran of the Civil war, had two witnesses on his side, John McCann and James Smith, who have no use for the southerners.

John McCann, a witness for the government, said that he was a veteran of the Civil war and had no use for the southerners. He had even then when he was following the flag and had bucked against them time and again and had no use for them. He had heard Horne threaten Brady. He said that he had seen Horne with a gun in his "kicks" and that it was a well known fact that he always carried a pistol in his pocket. He said that he was following the flag and that he would keep their mouths shut, the men would not fight. The women are the cause of it all. I think the principal cause, though, is the frequent visits of rim teams to that vicinity.

James Smith said that he saw the defendant going to get a gun to shoot a man.

For the defense Mr. Horne said that there had been considerable trouble in the neighborhood and that he knew that Mr. Brady had abused Mrs. Horne and on the night of May 11th when he returned from work he was informed that Brady had abused Mrs. Horne. That afternoon he saw Brady and invited him to come out, saying "I want to see you." Brady refused to come, saying that he would see the defendant later. Mr. Horne said that he was a southerner having been brought up in South Carolina and said that while he was in that part of the country he always carried a gun but had not done so since he came to the north. He admitted that he had called Brady a vile name but said that he meant him no bodily harm and did not threaten to do him any harm.

The court, in summing up the evidence, said that if the women would keep their tongues from wagging and attend their homes it would obliterate a great deal of unnecessary trouble. He also said that he did not know what would happen if women had votes.

He, however, found the defendant guilty and ordered him under $50 bonds to keep the peace for six months.

Non Support Cases

Three non-support cases took up the greater portion of this morning's session of the police court.

Emile Johnson was charged with failing to provide proper support for his three minor children, Florence, Robert and Leo, and he admitted his guilt. According to the testimony offered the court, the children have been in the care of his mother-in-law and he has been out of town. Despite the fact that he had worked in Salem he refused to contribute towards the support of the children and a warrant was issued for his arrest, the warrant being sent to Salem, but it seems that he was found staggering through the streets yesterday and placed under arrest. He was placed under $200 bonds for his appearance before the court next Saturday.

Arthur Gore pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with failing to provide proper support for his minor children, Matilda and Ralph. Mrs. Gore, the wife of the defendant, was the complainant and she was represented by Lawyer William B. Wilson.

Mrs. Gore told the court that she had to support her children while her husband spent his money on himself.

Gore said that up to a short time ago he had provided for his wife and children. He said he went to Warrenville recently and when he returned he found that she had broken up house and was living with a friend.

The court found him guilty and ordered him to pay $5 a week to his wife.

Felix Hubert was charged with failing to provide proper support for his wife, Lucy. He entered a plea of not guilty.

Mrs. Hubert, through an interpreter,

Mrs. Gore told the court that she had to support her children while her husband spent his money on himself.

Gore said that up to a short time ago he had provided for his wife and children. He said he went to Warrenville recently and when he returned he found that she had broken up house and was living with a friend.

The court found him guilty and ordered him to pay $5 a week to his wife.

Felix Hubert was charged with failing to provide proper support for his wife, Lucy. He entered a plea of not guilty.

STAR, THEATRE

Tomorrow the program will be entirely changed at the Star theatre and a show of unusual excellence will be presented for an admission of five cents, which always includes a comfortable seat. Women and children are tendered special attention. The theatre is always thoroughly clean and is the coolest in Lowell.

TWO VITAL THINGS REQUIRED IN TREATING SKIN DISEASES

In treating and curing Eczema and other skin diseases, two vital things must be done. One is to exclude dust, germs and air from the diseased parts, and the other is to set up the healing process at the same time. The new medical preparation called Cadum accomplishes both these results so effectively that the itching is stopped as soon as it is applied, and the sore parts heal up in a wonderfully short time. Anyone with skin trouble can test Cadum by getting a 10-cent box at any drug store, and thus personally realize the power of this new compound, which is just as effective in the cure of pimples, blotches, blackheads, eruptions, nettle rash, scaly skin, rash, sores, chafings, etc.

WEIRD BASE BALL

Lowell Gets Eleven Runs in Two Innings

And Won by Score of 12 to 11—Lawrence Got Two Home Runs on First Two Balls That Tyler Pitched—Seven Pitchers Used in Game

LAWRENCE, May 25.—The Lawrence team is weakly weak in the box. Yesterday afternoon, when in a weird game of baseball, that rivaled the ragged exhibition put up in Lowell on Monday, Lawrence lost by the score of 12 to 11. Lawrence lost at Lowell on Monday principally because of poor fielding, but yesterday's game was an awful jolt to those who have been boasting about the great pitchers that Lawrence has. Grant and Maybom had a beautiful chance to show whether or not they possess the goods and both fell down. Maybom was the man who was sent in to save the day, but he blew up in the eighth and gave a very poor exhibition of control. Finlayson was finally called in. The game resembled Monday's in some respects. Lawrence had what looked like a good safe lead, only to see the visitors gradually crawl up and then go into the lead. It was heart-breaking to the Lawrence fans—but the few hundred Lowell rooters enjoyed the fun immensely.

When Lawrence started out with the two homers on the first two pitched balls, the local fans settled down to see their team reverse the result of Monday's battle. When Lawrence got up to five runs, while Lowell failed to see the home plate, there was nothing to it but Lawrence. Even when Pat Crisheim made a mistake in the fifth inning and allowed Lowell a run by playing first instead of trying for the man at the plate, the fans did not think much of the run. Then when Lawrence came to bat in the last half and got the tally back the score was 6 to 1 in favor of Lawrence. No fan dreamed that Lawrence could lose then.

The Seventh Was Awful

Lowell made four runs in the seventh and came within one tally of tying the score. Lawrence relieved the fans by scoring two in the inter-half of this game. In the eighth, though, Lowell scored seven runs and led Lawrence 12 to 8. Lawrence got back three and with any kind of assistance from Myers or Kruger the score would have been tied in that inning. The eighth was positively the worst inning that has been played at Glen Forest. Lowell made seven tallies on two hits. Maybom put the team in bad by passing three men in that inning. He could not locate the pitcher. The bags were filled when Finlayson took his turn on the rubber. There was none out. But Crisheim and Finlayson contributed errors that figured in runs being scored.

Boutles Showed Up Best

The game was the longest drawn out that has ever been played in a league contest here. Two and three quarter hours were consumed in playing nine innings. Both sides were weak in the box. Lowell used four twirlers and

TO TRY FOR $10,000 PURSE FOR FLIGHT FROM NEW YORK TO ALBANY

NEW YORK, May 25.—Charles K. Hamilton is making his final plans for his flight from New York to Albany, June 5, in an effort to win a $10,000 prize offered by a New York paper for the first man who makes the flight between the two cities in an airship. Hamilton is confident that he will win the purse. The trip must be made within 24 hours, two landings being allowed.

Maybom Very Generous

Maybom passed Boutles, Buckles and Fitzpatrick in the eighth. Finlayson was sent in a delicate place. The bags were filled and there was none out. The players were on their nerve and the fans were bothered. Lowell fans were beginning to see signs of a repetition of Monday's game. Lawrence fans feared the same thing. The moments were intensely interesting. There was something doing. Ryan hit to Crisheim, who had a splendid chance to help Lawrence out of the hole. He fell down. His throw to Trainer was bad and Boutles crossed the plate in safety. Conner hit to Myers, who made an attempt to touch third and then threw home. The runner to the plate was safe. The umpire called Fitzpatrick out at third on a force out. Fitzpatrick rebelled and was banished. The score was 8 to 7 and there was only one out. Magee walked. Fluharty hit to right and scored two. Lowell now led, 9 to 8. Stovall hit to Finlayson, who fumbled and there was another tally. Stovall stole second. Fluharty was on third. Delaney fanned. Boutles was up for the second time in the same inning and he hit to left. Two more runs went in. The score was now 12 to 8. Buckles fanned. Lawrence gave Lowell a score in the latter half and a timely hit would have tied the score up. Finlayson doubled. He scored on Miller's single. Miller went to second on poor play by Stovall. Catterton popped to Ryan. Bannon walked. Myers fanned. Crisheim doubled and two runs scored. Kruger was not there and he fled to Ryan, leaving Crisheim on second. Lowell then led 12 to 11. With two down in the ninth, Finlayson doubled

DIAMOND NOTES

At Worcester today.

Eleven runs in two innings is going much.

Two hours and 50 minutes for nine innings with Lanigan umpiring approached the record.

Wonders will never cease. Fitz was consigned to the outer regions for kicking.

Boutles played here, there and elsewhere.

Stovall and Delaney, the new members, made a good first impression for each got two hits.

Ainsmith has been indefinitely suspended for his conduct at Spalding park, Monday. "Hack" is playing the game of his life and it's too bad to see him benched, but—

Brooklyn plays here Friday and Saturday.

The score at Berkley, R. I., Sunday, was 4 to 9 in favor of Berkley.

All baseball scores by innings at Duffy's, 17 Market street. Full ticker service. Ticker starts with the game. No delay in transmission.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Building in Tyngsboro Was Reduced to Ashes

A fire that started on the second floor of the old Universalist church in Tyngsboro about 1.30 o'clock yesterday reduced the building to ashes. The church was sold at auction seven years ago and was purchased by Alvin Sherburne, then a selectman of the town. Last July Mr. Sherburne sold the building to Daniel Shea of Tyngsboro and for the last three months the lower portion of the building has been occupied by Charles Allgrove who kept a meat and provision market. Mr. Allgrove estimated his loss at about $800 and Mr. Shea allows that his loss will exceed $1000. The building and contents were partially insured.

The building was 50 by 40 feet, three and one-half stories in front and an extra story in the rear. It was situated a short distance from the bridge and near Flint's box shop. Fred Andrews was first to discover the fire, and flames bursting their way through the windows attracted his attention. Mr. Andrews gave the alarm and in a few minutes a gang of men from the box shop had stretched two lines of hose and two well directed streams were playing on the fire. Lowell was telephoned for assistance and the protective engine 2 with four horses, hose wagon from engine 5, hose 7 and First Assistant Engineer Norton responded. The fire, however, had things all its own way and the building was a mass of smoldering ruins when the apparatus arrived from Lowell, despite the fact that the auto fire patrol made the trip in 14 minutes.

TWO GREAT BILLIARD STARS TO PLAY FOR TITLE

NEW YORK, May 25.—Harry P. Cline, many hands. Calvin Demarest won the last open championship tournament, but was beaten in his first match by Albert Cutler. Cline in turn took Cutler into camp, and this is the Philadelphia's first stand in defense. Cline has been playing all comers in preparation for what is considered the hardest match he could arrange. Hoppe's practice has been in private, but there has been plenty of it. He is in grand form and expects to write "champion" after his name May 27, 1910.

JOHN ENNIS IS TRYING TO OUTHIKE WESTON

NEW YORK, May 25.—John Ennis, 68 years old, is trying to outpace Weston and O'Leary by walking an old time pedestrian and all round athlete, started from city hall, New York city at 9 o'clock on May 23 to walk across the continent in an effort to beat Edward Payson Weston's recent record. Ennis is 68 years old. He lives in Coney Island. In 1898 he deated Weston and O'Leary by walking 110 miles in 22 hours and 10 minutes. The photograph shows Ennis and his friend Joseph Quick-Berner shaking hands in front of city hall at this time the walk began. Quick-Berner started to walk the first 200 or 300 miles with Ennis. From left to right, John Ennis and Joseph Quick-Berner.

domestic life showing first the unhappiness caused by a busy husband's neglect of his wife for his business and later their reconciliation. "A Race for a Bride," is an old legend well told and "An Indian Girl's Romance" is a pleasing Indian picture. "Marvelous Water" provides several real laughs, for it is a very good comedy. The musical features are the best to be had and are really high class.

OLIVER SPITZER

Admits He Was Party to Frauds

NEW YORK, May 25.—When Oliver Spitzer, former dock superintendent of the sugar trust, confessed in court to frauds he created the biggest sensation in the now famous trial. While his confession made on the witness stand, that he had been a party to the frauds, against the government, created a sensation, the attorneys for the government declare more startling information is under way and that the men "higher up" are headed toward prison as the result of Spitzer's story. President Taft, it is said, heard the confession of Spitzer before he pardoned him from the Atlanta prison, where he had been serving a two years' sentence.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS ARE OFFERED BY THE LOWELL MERCHANTS FOR THURSDAY TRADING. SEE THE BARGAINS ADVERTISED IN TODAY'S SUN.

INEXPENSIVE GRADUATING EXERCISES.

In many cities throughout the country the school authorities have arranged to prevent any outlay for dresses in connection with the graduating exercises. This will be appreciated by the parents who have made sacrifices to keep their daughters at high school long enough to complete the course, and as for the others, they will not object to have the old custom of personal display abandoned. It is only at the high school that there is any unnecessary display in connection with the closing exercises. It is well to make the exercises at the high school equally plain and simple so far as dress is concerned. Let the substantial results of thorough training be shown rather than the superficiality of dress.

DON'T LEAVE HORSES UNHITCHED.

It is absolutely dangerous to leave any horse unhitched on the public streets at the present time owing to the vast number of automobiles that are shooting to and fro and giving all kinds of strange "honks" and snorts. Instances are recorded daily where horses left unhitched are frightened by automobiles and run away while the driver is absent. A young girl was almost killed by a runaway of this kind in East Boston Tuesday, the pair having been left unhitched while the driver entered a store on business. A horse left standing unhitched on South street yesterday ran away and did much damage before being stopped. As it was the animal ran into a plate glass window but it was fortunate that nobody was killed. This leaving horses unhitched on the streets is a menace to public safety and must be stopped.

THE LAWRENCE INDICTMENTS.

Judging from the comments of the Lawrence press upon the recent indictments of officials of that city it would appear that the people are rightly conscious of their disgrace. There have been many similar cases of indictment in the past in Lawrence and yet there have been few convictions. It is alleged that in several instances where indictments were brought, the cases never came to trial. This must have been the fault of the district attorney unless that official found that the evidence was not sufficient to convict.

A mere indictment does not prove that the party indicted is guilty. The Lawrence officials are, therefore, presumed to be innocent until proven guilty, and it is to be hoped that the courts will decide this matter one way or the other in the immediate future.

It must be said that it would be very surprising indeed that no trouble should result from the method in which political fights were conducted in the city of Lawrence. It would be surprising, too, if Mayor White escaped without an attempt to "get back at him," because he has made some very bitter attacks upon public men. Such aggressiveness always makes enemies, and it seems to have been Mayor White's desire to multiply his enemies or at least to flay them to the limit of his power. If they have succeeded in having him indicted nobody need be surprised. The question of his guilt, however, like that of the other men indicted, will be settled not by politicians but by a court of justice, and the trial should be ordered as soon as possible, in justice to the men and to the city of Lawrence whose reputation is involved.

Let us hope the city of Lawrence has learned a lesson that will cause her citizens to realize that they themselves are responsible for the present state of affairs, in having elected unreliable men to office, some of whom had had official records standing against them. But Lawrence is not the only city that has had a spasm of this political foolishness which bars able and good men from office and elevates sensational disturbers, demagogues and political humbugs.

COMPULSORY SETTLEMENT OF RAILROAD STRIKES.

The time is not far distant when all labor disputes in the service of quasi public corporations will be submitted to arbitration. Compulsory arbitration on railroads has been in force in New Zealand for some time and is working to the entire satisfaction of the labor unions. When a demand for an increase in wages is made by the men the corporation must either grant it or else open its books to the court of arbitration. This is something a railroad hates to do. It is against the law to strike. Indeed, out of 31 demands at different times made in New Zealand the company yielded in 27, showing its unwillingness to show its books and its figures.

Why would not the same rule work well here? The United States is slow to adopt any reform relative to the settlement of labor disputes, mainly, it is presumed, for constitutional reasons, but with common carriers engaged in serving the public it seems that such interference would be warranted under the constitution. So great has been the loss inflicted upon the public in great railroad strikes that some mode of preventing such conflicts in the future must be adopted. The public is the chief sufferer in such strikes, and for this reason the government should provide some general mode of settlement such as is afforded by compulsory arbitration.

The Labor Bureau of this country is looking into the workings of the Canadian industrial disputes act with a view to enlightening the American people upon its workings. That law forbids strikes under penalty in all public utility corporations until the matters in dispute have been fully investigated by an official board which will afterwards inform the public as to the facts in the case. Boards of investigation and conciliation are provided for under the law and are obliged to act in each dispute.

The law has been in operation since 1907, and it has been used in fifty-nine disputes involving 65,000 employees and in forty-five cases a satisfactory settlement without a strike had been secured. The law seems to be far ahead of any law in operation in this country where the bodies derive their powers to act solely from one side or the other, and where one body says there is nothing to arbitrate the board's functions are at an end. It can advise but cannot compel a settlement.

SEEN AND HEARD

It might sound like a joke to say that John Rothgang hadn't had a wooden leg, but he has been long enough in the world to know the fact, nevertheless. Rothgang, who is the driver of a mail wagon, was run over by a heavy truck in East 17th street in New York.

"There's the grittiest man I ever saw," said Patrolman Unger, as he ran to Rothgang's assistance and saw how easily he was taking it. "I'll call an ambulance," he cried to the man lying in the street.

"Ambulance nothing!" said Rothgang. "Get a carpenter. That's a wooden leg."

Mrs. Catherine Cribbick Harley, said to be 63 years old, and charged by her daughters with being a flirt, spending large sums for dress and lavishing money on her young husband, has been ordered at Chicago from continuing the alleged dissipation of the fortune of $65,000 left by her late husband, Capt. James C. Cribbick, father of the plaintiff. The daughters, Mrs. Clara Wood and Mrs. Patricia Siebel, alleged in their petition that their mother considered herself a "heartbreaker" despite her age, and in her attempts at rejuvenation made fair to deprive the daughters of their inheritance.

"Never bear more than one trouble at a time. Some people bear three—all they have had, all they have now, and all they expect to have."

When a negro was arrested the other day for wandering around the streets, he wore one of those invincible smiles. When he was taken before the magistrate he was still smiling.

"What's your name?" asked the magistrate.

"Ah, don't know, sah," smiled the negro.

"Where do you live?"

"Ah, don't know, sah,"

"Where do you work?"

"At the Tem hotel, sah."

The magistrate thought that perhaps there was some truth in the negro's place of employment, so he thought he would see if the negro knew any of the students in the college near this particular hotel.

"Do you know any of the students at Tem college?"

"No, sah," answered the negro, his smile bigger than ever. "Ah, nebber goes in de bar!"—Philadelphia Times.

THE CALL OF THE TREES

Dream voices of the twilight
Upon the drifting breeze,
Across the years there follows
The whisper of the trees.

The rippling of the maples
Where memory entwines—
The dream song of the cedars—
The murmur of the pines.

The clamber of the ivy,
The hum of the falling, falling
From far and far away:

The call of little voices
That whisper soft and low
On leafy winds of the twilight
From long and long ago.

They whisper of the springtime
When life was still a dream
Of love in youth's sweet morning
By vale and singing stream.

Of orchard, inn and meadow
Two dreamers used to know
Through tangled bud and blossom—
The drift of April snow.

They speak of vanished seasons
Before the world grew old—
Before the heart grew heavy
With the tolling of the world.

Before the bending burden
Upon the dreamer's back
Had left him worn and weary
Upon a lone track.

They call across the shadows
To sleepers from all lands
An evensong of childhood—
A lullaby of love.

Just as they used to mingle
When early dusk would creep
Their crooning where the mother sang
Her little boy to sleep.

The city lights have beckoned
The dreamer and his dream
The hush of the night has faded
To where the robbers gleam:

The dream of the twilight
Loud echo on the breeze,
But over all there follows
The whisper of the trees.

The call of little voices
That whisper from above
An evensong of childhood—
A lullaby of love.

The ripple of the maples
Where memory entwines—
The dream song of the cedars—
The murmur of the pines.

TO COME BACK

NOT TO THE OLD HOME BUT OLD TIME FORM

A wide range of men, not individually or immediately interested in the prize ring, will watch with keen personal attention to see if James Jeffries "can get back." Here is a man once doing with amazing success the most difficult, dangerous and taxing of physical tasks. A fight calls for the highest physical endurance, supreme strength, even temper, quickness, dexterity and skill. All exerted after months of patient preparation, whose fruits must be plucked or lost in moments of extreme tension, when seconds are as long years, in their earnings. Once successful in this to a notable degree, Jeffries has wandered. The years have taken their toll. Pleasure has clipped strength, as Delilah clipped Samson's locks. Time has passed, in which the slow physical habits of leisure have been acquired. The very nervous system, let alone muscular fiber, both once schooled to lightning action, decision and disregard of pain and peril, have had time to be as those of other men in idling peace and quiet.

Can he "get back"? Experience is all against him. The moral and physical laws are both inexorable. What a man sows that shall he reap. What a man builds into body, nerve and mind that will he find when he draws on his reserve. No one can restore to him the years that the locusts of leisure and pleasure have eaten. He may, like Esau, seek his early birthright of strength, nerve and decision, but he will not obtain it again, though he yearn for it with tears and with training. This is the law of life. It is the law of character. In all life's battles the man who wishes to take a bond of fate and win must never "drop training" or cease from the struggle.—Philadelphia Press.

OLD SOLDIER

HAS FROM 11 TO 14 CENTS' WORTH OF FOOD A DAY

Although the colossal sum of $5,000,000 is carried by the sundry civil appropriation bill for the maintenance of soldiers' homes, the republicans are forcing the old soldiers of the nation to subsist on from 11 to 14 cents' worth of food per day.

As the poorest of the war department reported that the food in the soldiers' homes was no more in quantity than that supplied to prisoners in the federal penitentiaries.

An idea of the wasteful methods employed in conducting the homes may be had from the fact that, although the cost of maintenance more than doubled in 10 years between 1893 and 1903, the number of soldiers cared for had increased but 7 per cent.

"Let your imagination spread this outlay of 14 cents over a day's food supply," suggested Representative Cox of Ohio, "and you have an accurate picture of how the nation's heroes are being fed. Observe the evening meal, and you will appreciate what it was that moved Inspector Brewster to pity and inspired his recommendation that there be at least a bowl of milk added to the scant evening fare."—Johnstown Democrat.

DOLLAR BILLS

BAD ONES IN CIRCULATION IN NUTMEG STATE

The Bridgeport Post gives warning of a counterfeit dollar note in circulation throughout Connecticut. Current in a neighbor state, the spurious medium is these broad and narrow bills, which might be as well for Brooktonians to keep their eyes open. The fact that the note is not of large denomination makes it all the more dangerous. It is less apt to be noticed when presented with numerous others. Large bills are frequently offered that way. Then, too, the smaller bill or coin circulating more largely among the masses of the people, for this reason possesses powers of working greater hardship upon those who are less able to bear it. A bad dollar bill may be worse in this respect than a bad ten dollar bill. A bad twenty may not have a chance to defraud where a bad "one" or "two" may have scores of chances. The same reasoning applies to bogus fractional currency, always an ugly proposition for the government to deal with, and offering peculiar profit to the crooks who produce it.

The bad bill which is reported from Bridgeport is described in such a way as to make detection easy. If one is on the alert, the paper is said to be thick and the engraving coarse. The regulation color is there, and the lines in the paper that mark good money. But these are offset by the effects named and the fact that the features of Grant and Lincoln are indistinct. It will not do any harm at all to be on the lookout at this early stage, when the evil can be easier headed off if it shows signs of reaching beyond the Connecticut borders.—Brookton Times.

SANE FOURTH CELEBRATION

New Englanders who attend the annual Playground Congress which will be held in Rochester, N. Y., June 7-11, will probably bring back some novel ideas concerning the possibilities which lie in the celebration of a sane and safe Fourth.

Ways by which the Fourth may be made a happy one for children and its dangers eliminated will be discussed. National authorities on playgrounds recognize that while speeches and oratory may be all very well to interest the child, such things can never with the child take the place of the old-time noisy and dangerous Fourth.

Lee P. Hammer, of the Russell Sage Foundation points out that it is necessary to construct programs in which children shall have an active part. The fireworks set off by experts at night will take the place of the evening, but for the day celebration there should be hundreds of parades as children always like to march, and the singing of patriotic songs. Then at exactly twelve o'clock when all the bells are ringing with an American flag attached.

Kite flying contests in different parts of the cities to see which child can send the kite highest and similar amusements would make the day pass pleasantly and safely.

LADIES' NIGHT
Conducted by Ancient York Lodge

Ancient York lodge, A. F. and A. M., held a ladies' night last night at its quarters in the Masonic temple. There were about 150 ladies present and the affair proved to be very enjoyable one. During the early part of the evening there was a reception after which an entertainment was held and supper followed.

The members met at four o'clock yesterday afternoon in special session and during the meeting the third degree was worked.

At seven o'clock the members and guests met at the hall and the reception was held. In the receiving line were Senior Warden Dexter Morrill and Mrs. Morrill, Past Master Herbert E. Fletcher and Mrs. Fletcher, and Master Harry G. Pollard and Mrs. Pollard. The reception lasted for a half-hour, following which the guests, directed by Marshal Henry J. Fay, marched to the banquet hall, where supper was served.

The conclusion of supper a delightful entertainment by professional talent from Boston was given, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The program was as follows:

Overture, "Philadelphia," Arranged by E. B. Powell, The Hayden Trio.

Reading, Miss Nina Bearse Wilbur, "Blue Bells of Scotland," Miss Eleanor Soule Hayden.

Soprano Solo, Miss Evangeline White.

Violoncello, "The Lost Chord," "Barcarolle," "Beautiful Night," "Hayden Trio.

Viola Solo, "Nadische," "Humoresque," "Edwin B. Powell.

Operatic Selections, "March from 'Carmen,'" "Alceste" from "Il Trovatore," "Anvil Chorus" from "Il Trovatore," Hayden Trio.

Reading, Miss Nina B. Wilbur, "Xylophone Solo," Miss Hayden.

Soprano Solo, Miss Hilary.

Selections, Hayden Trio.

March, "The Show Girl," Hayden Trio.

The present officers of Ancient York lodge are:

Charles T. Cahill, W. M.; Dexter G. Morrill, S. W.; Harry H. Sumner, J. W.; Edward W. Pease, treasurer; William F. Faxon, secretary; Rev. J. M. Craig, chaplain; Henry J. Fay, marshal; Charles H. Clogston, S. S.; J. Henry Smith, J. D.; Alvan Sturges, S. S.; George W. Randall, J. S.; Milo Robbins, I. S.; Franklin S. Pevey, organist; Frank K. Stearns, tyler.

THE BACHELORS

TO HOLD FORTH IN ASSOCIATE HALL

The Twentieth Century Bachelor club minstrel troupe will hold the boards at Associate hall Friday evening, May 27. The entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Mathew Temperance Institute and it promises to eclipse anything yet conducted by the popular institute.

The overture by the entire troupe will be seen for the first time and it is certainly a very "classy opener."

The middleman will be Charles D. Stattery, while the musical director is Professor Arthur Martel. The latter will give several piano selections.

"The Boys of Uncle Sam," a beautiful song composed by Messrs. Martel and Long, will be one of the features. This will be sung by John J. Dalton. Another number that is sure to be a great drawing card will be given by the Glendales quartet. The Glendales will have several new pieces and it will be well worth the price of admission to go and hear them. Songs will be given by Martin Maguire, William Goodkin, Edward Shaw, Frank Connor and Henry Curry and some great comedy will be furnished by the six men.

The program in full is as follows:

Opening chorus Entire company
Business is Business George Rogers
Love Light Martin Maguire
I'm Going Home Thomas Corbett
Nearer to the Promised Land Frank Connor
None of Them Got Anything William Goodkin
Nora Malone Ed. Sherr
You'll Come Back Charles Deoe
Selections, Glendales quartet: Messrs. Maguire, Golden, Curry, McNulty.
Stein Song William Goodkin
You Ain't Talking to Me Frank McCarlin
Songs of Uncle Sam John J. Dalton
Black Salome Luke McDonald
Grand finale, Betty Ross.

(Solo by Henry Curry.) Twentieth Century Bachelor Club, 30 voices.

Music will be by the Middlesex orchestra, James Bourke, the energetic secretary of the "Males," is working hard for the success of Friday evening's show.

CANADIAN MARATHON DERBY

TORONTO, Ont., May 25.—Wood of Montreal won the second Canadian Marathon derby here last night in fast time. Hans Holmer was second and Kolonelien, the Finlander, third. St. Louis finished fourth. Woods' time was 2:31:10.2-5.

DEGREE FOR PRES. TAFT

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Taft is to receive on June 18 the honorary degree of doctor of jurisprudence from the College of St. Thomas at Villanova, Pa. On June 22 he will attend commencement exercises at Yale.

GLENN CURTISS

To Attempt Most Ambitious Flight

NEW YORK, May 25.—Glenn H. Curtiss will attempt on Thursday the most ambitious flight over the water that has been essayed in an airplane. Under the terms of competition offered by the New York World he will try to fly from Albany to New York with one stop, although two stops are allowed.

For the last six months Curtiss has been endeavoring to raise the prize of $10,000 offered by the World for a flight from New York to Albany or reverse, with one stop. Recently he has been conducting experiments to determine the ability of his latest model to light on the water and float without upsetting.

Curtiss will start from Rensselaer Island, below the bridges, across the Hudson at Albany, probably about 4 o'clock Thursday morning, if weather conditions favor. He expects to break his flight somewhere in the neighborhood of Poughkeepsie. His machine will weigh 1000 pounds, including the weight of the pilot, 145 pounds. It was originally desired to start from New York, but the reports of the weather show that northerly winds make up 25 per cent of all airs that blow from the 10 points of the compass.

The distance by rail is 142 miles, but by water it is estimated the river captains, that allowing for cut offs, which Curtiss will make, cross beds of the river, 150 miles, will be a more accurate measurement. The longest cross country flight officially recorded is 125 miles, made by Paulhan on April 28, 1910, from Orleans to Arles-sur-Aube. In his interrupted flight from London to Manchester, a distance of 185 miles, Paulhan flew from Hamstead Heath, London, to Litchfield, 117 miles, in the first leg of his journey, and finished with a spin of 68 miles the next morning.

Curtiss now holds the international record for speed, which he won at Rheims, France, since then he has also established new records for quick starting and short starting.

FRANTIC MOTHER

FOUND HER CHILD DEAD IN BATH TUB

NEW YORK, May 25.—The effort of a small boy to amuse a neighbor's baby led to the infant's death in a tub of hot water yesterday afternoon. The little victim was Alice Altger, 10 months old. The police say that while Mrs. Altger was hanging out clothes in the yard, Robert Cornell, although only five years old, turned on the water in the bath tub and lifted the baby up to watch it run. The baby slipped from his arms and the boy, frightened, ran home. The infant was dead when found by the frantic mother.

HAIR REMOVERS ARE DANGEROUS

Physicians Say: "Don't Use Poisonous Depilatories."

The extravagant claims recently made by depilatories for the removal of hair removers in sensational advertisements unquestionably justify physicians in cautioning the public against the use of such depilatories.

How many people have been enticed into using these dangerous preparations with consequent injury to themselves, cannot be estimated, but only guessed at.

The preparations above referred to are invariably in the form of ointments, pastes, which are to be spread upon the skin to remain until they dry. These contain Sulphide of Barium, an insoluble chemical, which, when absorbed, therefore cannot be absorbed by the skin. The very fact that you are told to leave these pasty compounds on the skin until they dry and cure and then lift off with a knife is proof positive that they are not absorbed. If they are, why do they still remain on the skin? The most they can possibly do is to remove the surface hair, which in consequence will reappear stronger and thicker after each removal.

There is only one logical and scientific way to remove hair, and that is by means of a liquid containing soluble ingredients which can be absorbed by the skin. DeMicare, known all the world over as the only real superfluous hair remover, is just such a preparation. It is easily and quickly absorbed, and after you have used it you will note there is nothing left on the skin. It leaves the skin free from irritation, and what is more to the point it is absolutely non-poisonous, therefore it will not produce eczema or blood poisoning. Remember, no matter what claims are made to the contrary, no poisonous, pasty compound or other depilatory can be absorbed into the hair root, and we can prove it.

Beware of the false free advertisements and others. Don't be deceived by them. Better take a doctor's advice. DeMicare is sold by A. G. Pollard Co. We will send you a 52-page booklet containing full information concerning this remarkable preparation, as well as testimonials of prominent physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and a doctor's opinion. You should read this booklet before you try anything. Write to the DeMicare Chemical Co., Dept. 19, 1905 Park Avenue, New York, asking for the booklet, and it will be mailed, sealed, at once.

OUR FOREIGN-TRADE
Details for the April trade of the United States with the principal countries and grand divisions of the world have just been completed by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. They show increased "importations" from all the grand divisions and nearly all of the important countries, especially countries supplying material for use in manufacturing, of which the importations show big increases for 1910 compared with 1909. Exports show a falling off in totals to those countries forming the principal markets for foodstuffs, but an increase to those countries forming markets for manufactures. Thus to Belgium, France, Germany, The Netherlands and the United Kingdom the value of exports shows a decline, while to Argentina, Australia, Cuba, Mexico and Canada the value of the exports shows a marked increase, especially to Canada, to which the figures show an increase of more than 23 per cent both in the month of April and the ten months ending with April.

for a Fourth of July observance was read and tabled.

Mr. Sullivan moved that the order calling for $1500 for a Fourth observance be taken from the table and it was so voted.

Mr. Achin moved that the order be amended to $2000. It was so voted. Mr. Achin then asked for a roll call vote on the passage of the amended order. The order was defeated, 13 to 13. Mr. Gookin gave notice of reconsideration.

On motion of Councilman Chapman, the council proceeded to ballot for a principal assessor. There was no choice.

Frank M. Drogan got 11; Warren F. Sanborn got 3; Arthur Bartlett got 2; Solomon S. Mayberry got 2; Fred W. Farnham got 3; Frank W. Cheney got 2 and Chas. G. Hartwell got 1. Mr. Elliott was absent.

At 11:15 a motion to adjourn was defeated and on motion of Mr. Achin another ballot was taken. There was still no choice. Mr. Sanborn gained a vote and Mr. Drogan still stood at 11, Bartlett got 3, Mayberry got 3 and Farnham 2.

At 11:25 a recess of 20 minutes was taken. One hour later, at just 12:25, the republicans came in after a long caucus.

When the council got down to business again, President Jewett read the joint order appropriating $2000 for Patrick's church will hold its annual 10 mile run around the North common. Last year's event, it will be remembered, was a pronounced success, more than 5000 people witnessing the event. This year the arrangements will be the same, and, judging from the entries, the contest should be unusually interesting. All of those who are to run have been in constant practice for a month past and excellent time is expected to be made. Of course, Maloney, last year's winner, is looked upon as a tightly man to land first position. There are several others, however, whom their friends claim will push Maloney to his very limit to cross the tape first. The entries close Thursday night of this week.

The prizes, which are given by Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan, are as follows: First, suit of clothes; second, suit of clothes; third, dress suit case; fourth, Lamson & Hubbard derby; and to every runner finishing will be given a derby hat.

The minutes were themselves into webs that spelled hours and finally the inner man made a holler. His demand was imperative, and sandwiches and coffee were gathered from the lunch cars.

The caucus ended at 2:12 o'clock, and at 2 o'clock Mr. Elliott, who had been detained at home through sickness in his family, arrived in the republican committee room and accompanied his brother republicans to the council chamber. On motion of Mr. Achin the council proceeded to take the fifth ballot for principal assessor, and Solomon Mayberry was elected. The vote was as follows:

Mayberry, 14; Farnham, 12, and Hartwell 1. All of the democrats and Mr. Bartlett voted for Farnham. McKenzie cast his vote for Hartwell. The council adjourned at 2:15 o'clock.

AUTO RACE BILL

Reported Favorably After Protest by Varnum Avenue People

BOSTON, May 25.—Following a hearing yesterday the committee on roads and bridges of the legislature reported the bill of the Lowell automobile club, giving the authorities of Lowell and Tyngsboro authority to close certain streets and roads between Sept. 15 and 22 in connection with the motor car races of the Lowell Automobile club.

A warm opposition developed at the hearing before the committee. Residents of Varnum avenue appeared to protest against the closing of that avenue on the ground that it deprived them of their rights. They were represented by counsel and stated that, if necessary, the matter will be taken to the courts and fought out there.

For the petition George W. Cummings and John O. Heinze filed with the committee petitions bearing 50 signatures favoring the bill, while Senator Hubbard, who presided, presented a petition containing signatures of 33 residents of Varnum avenue. Against these the remonstrants filed a petition of 22 residents of Varnum avenue.

Messrs. Cummings and Heinze stated that the races of last year were a great success and brought much business to Lowell. The majority of the people along the course favor the passage of the bill and the reputation of the races this year. Others who favored the bill were ex-Senator Milton of Lowell, Seaborn Benjamin Lawrence and Jesse Butterfield, both of Tyngsboro.

In opposition, Attorney William A. Hogan said he represented 25 residents of Varnum avenue. He intends to question the right of the legislature to authorize the closing of the streets. The power of the legislature is limited by constitutional lines, he said. The bill is faulty in construction, in that it makes no provision for damages.

The hearing was then closed.

Mack's Philadelphia Athletics Showing Class In the American League Race

By TOMMY CLARK.

IF his pitchers hold out Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics is the team to beat in the American league pennant fight this season. Although it is a little early in the campaign to predict this, at the same time it doesn't do any harm to look the matter over thoroughly.

Last year the Athletics chased out the Detroit Tigers to the last ditch, and this year Mack starts in with the same team of youngsters benefited by the experience of a hard campaign. Hughie Jennings also has practically the same team as last year, but his men are not youngsters. Quite a number of his players are going back as fast as Mack's youngsters are coming. Mack also has a few goos, but not as many as Jennings, and he has a good youngster to fill every gap that can occur.

These facts should make the Athletics figure to beat out Detroit this season, and so far no other team has shown form good enough to warrant the prediction that it can outstrip the two leaders. If rumors are true there are special reasons why Mack would like to win another pennant with the Athletics this season. Of course he will tell you that he always wants to win, but he will hardly deny that he is more than anxious to land the flag this year. He has the men, and he has the organization, and if his pitchers last he will come pretty near turning the trick.

Connie Mack is proud of his team and is well satisfied with the showing that they have made, and he has reason to be.

Mack is very serious about the good work of his players and, with the keen analysis of which he is capable, points to the strong points of his organization. He is especially gratified with the good showing of his pitchers and thinks that as the test comes day after day they will prove their great usefulness.

Unless all dope is wrong, Detroit will give the Athletics the hardest struggle during 1910. Just as long as Jennings is at the helm there is bound to be some fight brigade in the Michigan city. And, though the Tigers struck reverses, they have not been serious enough to make Manager Mack feel safe from the Tigers' claws.

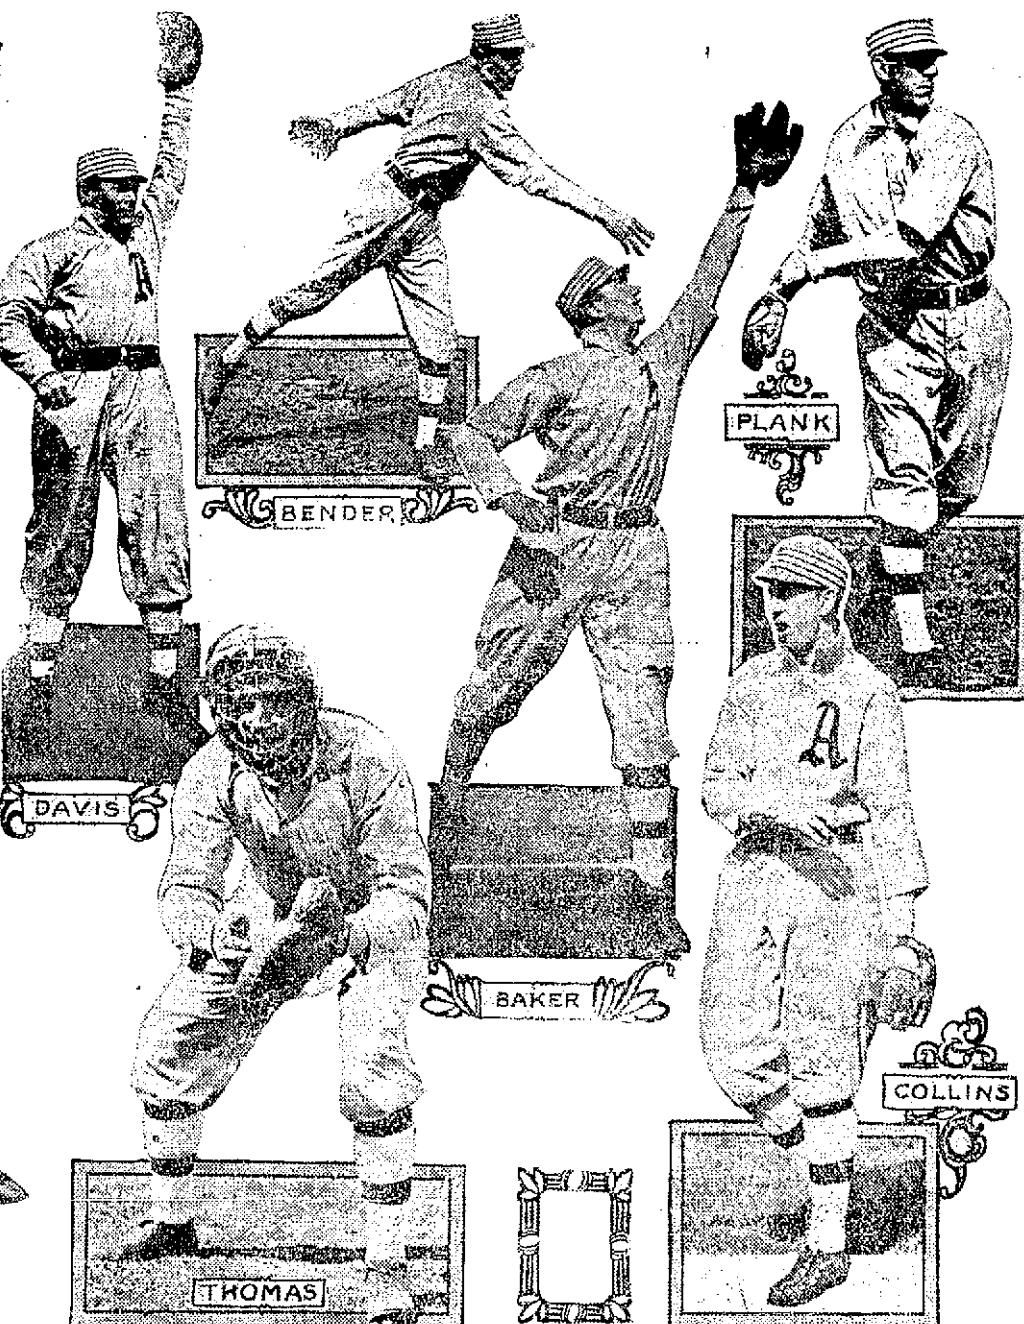

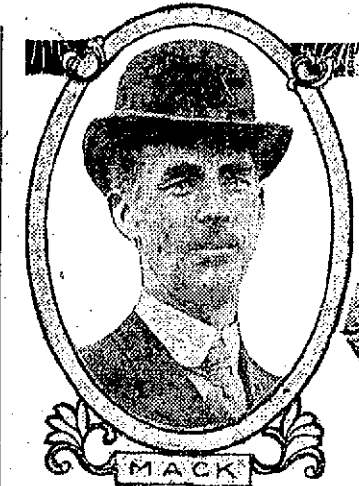

Cleveland is another club that is certainly going to make trouble. The Naps play inside baseball, and it is always a battle of wits as well as hands and feet with McGuire's bunch. But there must always be some batting too.

New York is the other club which at this early date appears able to keep within hailing distance of the leaders. But the Highlanders will have Boston and possibly Chicago to watch, for these two fast teams want to get into the first division badly. However, looking over the situation from every angle, this should be a great year for Mack.

Tom Lynch.

Mr. Tom Lynch, president of the National league, might have been a good umpire in his time, but it's a certainty that he never made a good baseball pitcher. He lacks control. His publication of his letter reprimanding Manager Roger Bresnahan of the St. Louis team was a bit of intemperance that was not necessary and was not in good taste. The making public of disciplinary measures never has done any organization any good and generally so increases the victim as to cause irreparable ill feeling.

Mr. Lynch's utterances were neither dignified nor warranted, for, whatever else may be said of Roger, he's not a

Manager of Philadelphia Athletics and Some of His Stars

Photos by American Press Association.

"chump," and he was in the right. Lynch is really responsible for the entire broil through his admitted want of attention to one of the duties of his position. The amateur umpire, too, aggravated Bresnahan by decisions so palpably wrong that even the Cincinnati fans are reported to have sympathized with Roger.

Undoubtedly Bresnahan permitted his temper to get the better of him, but there was nothing in the episode to warrant Lynch in publicly reprimanding him in such a low browed manner.

Lynch is not yet big enough himself to swing such a big stick. At best, he was a creature of chance, and his accession to the National league presidency was a mere incident, the consequence of a wrangle between the Brush and Herrmann factions of the organization. It was better to have an innocuous, inoffensive Nick Young sort of boss than a fiery headed Lynch.

Ball Players Rarely Hurt.

The unfortunate number of injuries so far in the baseball season has led some to compare the danger with that of football, but this is a foolish thing. Baseball players are rarely hurt. Indeed, this seems strange, for the big league pitchers are developed to a point of speed and curve these days that they can heave the pellet as though it were shot from a catapult.

Hughie Jennings is one of the famous players who came dangerously near cashing in from injuries in a ball game. In the old days when Hughie was playing with Baltimore he hugged the plate closely when batting and courted being struck so that he might get to the base. When Baltimore was playing New York Amos Rusie hurled the pill one day with a quick inshoot that Hughie couldn't dodge. Jennings hovered between life and death for five days. Indeed, Jennings seems to bear a charmed life. At Cornell he dived head first into the concrete bottom of an empty swimming tank. He was saved by his powerful constitution.

Baseball by Chinese Fan.

From Chong Tat, a Chinese baseball fan who is now in San Rafael, Cal., comes comment that is meaty. "Baseball," says Chong, "jes' like lottery. Some day you get wellie good luck, some day evlbody go up in the air, jes' same firework. Melican girl in grand stand wellie putty, but jes' same no good for smart game. Pitcher and feller behind but he look and see wellie nice girl laugh and wink he forget catch ball. He look see girl he no look see ball. Some smart guy he catch ball one hand, he like girl look see. He think he make what you callen big hit. Next time he missum ball he no so smart. No girl in grand stand he more better game."

Chong also talks about umpires. "Umpire, he all light some time. Jim Nealon, he hip good. He no cheatum. Some umpire he can no see. He close eye, go asleep. Grand stand yell, umpire he wak up quick, say 'Strike!' He no look see. He jes' guessum. Umpires jes' same Chinese kite. He full a wind."

Why Ty Cobb Is Champion Batter

Detroit Americans' Star Right Fielder and Great Bag Purloiner Is Student of Game.

TY COBB, the Detroit Americans' great outfielder, is the baseball wonder of the day. We all know that the Georgian has no rivals when it comes to the long hits, the daring work on the sacks, the stolen bases and the terror he brings to pitchers and fielders. Still little is really known of Cobb in comparison with many other players of less renown. Despite his name and fame, the Georgian keeps to himself more than is usual with players of the day, and few people really understand either Cobb or his playing style.

It is generally believed—mainly from the dash and apparent swagger of his play—that Cobb is a swell headed and intolerable sort of pest, inflated, bloviating, boastful. He isn't. He was a fresh sort of boy when he began the game, but his freshness was not boastful or mere swell headedness. The kid knew he had the goods; he also had a warm temper, and he wouldn't stand for the bossing that young players generally receive. Cobb the man is a modest, quiet and likable chap, worth knowing, worth admiring, and people who have met him either in Detroit or Georgia are invariably charmed with his ways of speech. Once and for all, get the idea that Cobb is a rough, a swell head and a skate out of your mind. He isn't that sort of boy, and he is well worth any man's respect and friendly hand.

Writing of Tyrus Cobb, a Georgian who knows him says that Cobb, the most popular young fellow in Augusta, is not merely a hit or miss batter, whose success has terrorized the pitchers, but a student of the game. "Cobb's ideas as applied to the improvement of his own skill are interesting," says his friend. "He figures that study of the pitchers will do better than all the practice hitting in the world, and the improvement of his percentage seems to bear him out. Each man who goes against Cobb is made the object of special attention. If Tyrus can hit him right at the start and keep hitting him he does not worry. If the pitcher proves too much for him Cobb will do some thinking, watching and planning, and so far has seldom lost."

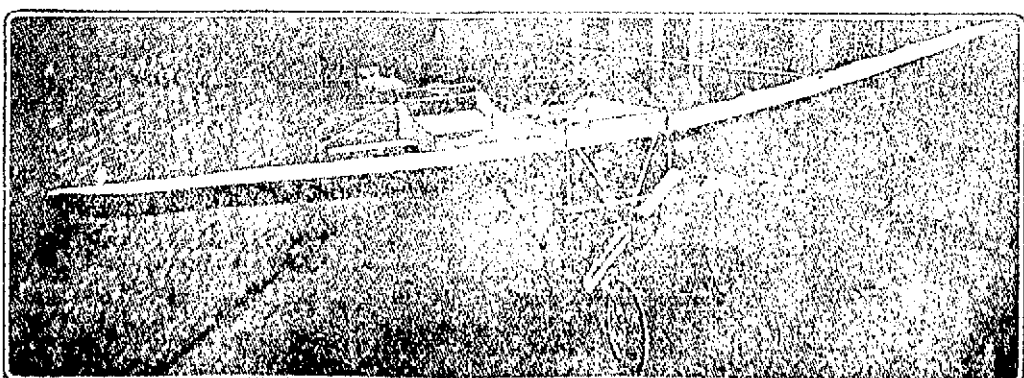

"For two years Doc White of Comiskey's team had Cobb for the goat. Twice, it is on record, he made Cobb fan three times during a single game. It looked as if White had Tyrus for a mark forever, and it became a standard joke of baseball that there was never yet a buffalo like that which White held on Cobb.

"Cobb kept up the war against his master. He tried changing his stand at bat and the way he held his stick, but never did he get the ghost of a hit off White till he stepped quickly back of the plate and met the ball after the break. That settled it. After that the buffalo was gone—Cobb had White, and White had Cobb no more."

"Naturally every one wants to know each year why Cobb proves more or less of a failure in the annual world's series. The reason is this: A typically southern player like Cobb cannot play good ball in cold weather. You will remember that the spring of 1909 was very cold and that Cobb was hitting away under grade until the warmth arrived. The world's series is always played in bitter cold, and under such circumstances Tyrus is a fizzle."

"The real point about Cobb is this—that instead of being simply a wild hit or miss batsman he is a thinker and a student of the game. Moreover, in his home city he is even more popular as a citizen than as a ball player, and nobody could have more friends."

Combination Bicycle and Flying Machine—New English Sport Invention

BURNS-LANGFORD MILL

Warm Things Promised For Fight Fans When These Two Heavies Meet in Ring.

Tommy Burns and Sam Langford are at last to fight. The muss will occur in California on Sept. 5. Billy McCarty landed the match for the Metropolitan club. Burns is to receive a bonus of $5,000 for cabling his acceptance from Australia. The winner of the forty-five round bout will get $20,000, while the loser must be content with $10,000.

Hugh McIntosh of Australia has tried to lure Langford across the Pacific with an offer of a $10,000 certainty to box Burns in Sydney in June, but Woodman is not in love with the scheme. For one thing he does not want to miss the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Anyhow, he sent a reply that if McIntosh offered a substantial purse with the customary winner's and loser's end Langford would consider the proposition.

When they get together it will be an event that will rank second in importance only to the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

What could Burns do to offset Langford's uppercuts? A fight fan asked the other day. Well, Tommy has at least one good punch even if it may not quite balance the scales. Whoever saw Burns and O'Brien in their first fight in Los Angeles will remember the right cross counter with which Burns caught O'Brien in the fifth round. It was as well timed a punch as ever a ringsider gazed upon, and it was only O'Brien's extreme thickness in the line of ducking and dodging that kept him out of harm's way for the remainder of the round and enabled him to continue fighting on a more defensive basis.

Burns defeated Squires with the same kind of a punch. He seawaved till the Australian came within striking distance, timed his man to a dot and brought him to the floor with a crack that sounded like a pistol shot. It took three more of the same kind to settle Squires completely.

Burns is one of the best timers among modern ringmen, and if his right cross and Langford's uppercut started at the same instant it would be a toss up which would annex the long end of the purse.

But is Burns as dangerous a man as formerly? There is grave doubt about it. His go in Australia with Johnson was a heartbreaking one for Burns, and he took a terrible beating. It has been shown over and over again that punishment gloves a man up more than the passage of years. Burns laid off fifteen months after his experience with Johnson and then took on Bill Lang, a rising young Australian heavyweight. On a prior occasion Burns defeated Lang in six rounds, but this last time the bout went the full twenty, and there was much dissatisfaction when the referee decided in Burns' favor. Burns, they say, did very well for about ten rounds and then loaded.

A day later news came that Lang had broken his hand in the ninth round, and this further discounted Burns' victory. Now, half the broken hands we hear about when fights are over are merely injuries of more or less trivial nature; but, assuming that Lang injured his hand sufficiently to prevent him having free use of it, it looks as though the fates were kind to Tommy Burns, the argument being, of course, that if both his hands had remained intact Lang would have defeated the Canadian.

THREE LEADING THIRD SACKERS

That's one thing the big chap will not stand for. He hates to have people who do not know him attempt to open a conversation with him.

And no all is not joy in the life of the famous Hans.

He would give anything in the world to be able to sit down and talk to his pals. He can't do it without a big crowd butting in.

That's why he has to sneak off to his room and stay alone all the time.

SPORT CHIPS

The Chicago Motor club will give a gold medal to the driver of the winning car of the Gilden automobile tour.

Adrien E. Rogner, captain of last year's Brown university football eleven and all America end on Camp's eleven, will coach the Union college team of Schenectady next fall.

Vivian Nickalls, an English oarsman, for the last two years coach of the Detroit Boat club, has returned and will train the junior eight for the Canadian and national championships at St. Catharines and Washington.

The Thousand Island Yacht club, holder of the American Power Boat association gold challenge cup, won two years ago from the Chippewa Bay Yacht club by the Dixie II, and successfully defended by that boat last year, has chosen Aug. 4 to 6 as the dates for this year's races. They will be held on the club course off Alexandria bay, Thousand Islands.

Crow and Murray, Canadian horsemen, will take to England six of their jumpers for the London show on June 6 and may also exhibit them at Richmond, The Hague and Dublin. The jumpers are Confidence, The Wagon, Victory, Stayaway, Ironclads and Blunderbuss. Stayaway will be entered in the long distance jump at London, while the others will try to win the high jump.

The race for the title of the best third baseman in the country is a close one this season. At present Harry Lord of the Boston Americans is leading his rivals by a few points, with Arthur Devlin of the New York Nationals the runner up and Harry Steinfieldt a close third. Lord is playing a classy game at last station with the Red Sox and smacking the ball hard.

Big Fight May Draw $300,000.

There is little doubt that the Jeffries-Johnson fight will draw close to $300,000. Tex Rickard, the promoter, states that already the San Francisco office has ticket sales amounting to $200,000 and that orders are still coming in bunches from all over the United States and other parts of the world.

Rickard says with that amount already in the box office the fight will prove to be the greatest financial success ever attempted in its line.

COIN FOR BIG MILL.

Scene Shows $30,000 in Gold Deposited by Fight Promoters.

Note the smile that Johnson wears and how close he and his manager are to the yellow stuff. Then note the worried look on Sam Berger's face. This money represents the final deposit of the forfeit money to guarantee that Rickard and Gleason will carry out their contract of holding the Johnson-Jeffries fight. The transaction shown took place in Frisco recently.

Pretty Soft Picking For Ball Players.

The salary list of the average major league clubs these days is anywhere from $80,000 to $70,000. This shows what a wonderful increase has taken place in the players' pay within the last forty years. The old Cincinnati Red Stockings, who went through the season of 1869 without losing a game, are reported to have had a salary list of but $9,100 for the season, and the players those days did not have protection that now exists, and consequently their work was harder.

Catchers then wore neither masks nor gloves—in fact, gloves were unheard of—and, considering the great scores that were run up, every man on the team must have been thoroughly exhausted when a game was over.

To receive $700 for a season's playing marked a player as a star of the first water, and yet today the kings of the diamond receive more than that for a single month.

DIAMOND POINTERS

Pittsburg is said to be counting on Southpaw Lefield to pitch at least forty games this season. The team's four standbys in the box are Camnitz, Adams, Maddox and Lefield.

Manager McAleer has chased Scout Mike Kahoe into the bushes to dig up at once some promising young pitchers, as the Washington pitching department is showing up wonky.

The way good old Napoleon Lajoie is bombarding the ball indicates that the Frenchman is going to give Tyrus Cobb, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker and the other American league sluggers a hot race for swatting supremacy this campaign.

Owen Bush, the diminutive shortstop of the Tigers, is making a remarkable start in this year's race. Not only is Bush showing improvement in his fielding, but his hitting is much better than it was last season, and he is already being heralded as the star of the American league shortstops.

ANNUAL REUNION

Of Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's Parish

The Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's parish held the second annual reunion and banquet in St. Patrick's school hall last night. The affair was a grand success and was attended by about three hundred members. It was hoped that Rev. William O'Brien, P. M., might be present but another engagement detained him. Though he was absent he was not forgotten for every speaker took occasion to pay tribute to the beloved pastor and none forgot to speak a kind word in memory of the late Rev. Michael O'Brien, who was spiritual director of the society in its early days. The banquet was served at 8 o'clock and when the good things provided had been disposed of, the members of the society listened to a most interesting program. The president of the society, Mr. Michael McDermott, called to order and introduced as toastmaster Mr. James O'Sullivan who was given a grand reception. He spoke on the objects of the Holy Name society and urged the members to be ever attentive to its aims. He then presented Mayor McLaughlin whose remarks were necessarily brief because he had another engagement to fulfill. The mayor expressed his pleasure at the success of the reunion and praised the work that the Holy Name society has done in St. Patrick's parish and throughout the city.

Rev. Fr. Curtin, spiritual director of the society, was given a most cordial greeting when introduced by Toastmaster O'Sullivan.

Fr. Curtin told the members that the more loyal they are to the fulfillment of the promises they made when they became members of the Holy Name society the better citizens they will be. He asked them to do their best in swelling the ranks of the organization and assured them every effort they put forth to promote reverence for the name of God would be rewarded.

Mr. Edward P. Slattery was also called upon and cited the public spirit displayed by men of St. Patrick's parish. He mentioned, particularly the efforts of Messrs. James and Humphrey O'Sullivan. The latter, he said, provided Lowell with the best Fourth of July demonstration, the finest St. Patrick's day parade and the greatest fireman's muster that the city ever enjoyed. The address of the evening was delivered by Mr. John J. Murphy who spoke in part as follows:

"We are told that one of the evils of our age is a lack of reverence for things intended to fill us with reverence. It is said that not a few of our venerable practices from which our fathers drew their best impulses have either fallen into disuse among those of us who belong to a later generation, or are thought to be hardly worth while. Indeed, one has not to look with the eye of pessimism to see in present day occurrences tendencies that indicate to what an alarming extent the evils of irreverence have invaded our civilization. In so far as we have allowed it to take hold of us and to spread unchecked, we are responsible for a condition which cries aloud for correction. It is an evil, not solely because it tends to remove from civil life some of the elevating graces—it is an evil of more fatal consequences, because it strikes squarely and at once at religion and society. Our religion cannot be real and effective if we grow indifferent to its sacred symbols; they were instituted as helps, to aid us in keeping whole our faith, and according as they decline in our esteem, or awaken any but devout emotions, our sense of the highest duties decreases, the most binding moral ties relax, belief itself, being undermined, totters on its foundations, and as one by one the props that support our religious faith fall away, we sink into the abyss of doubt, thence to infidelity.

"As it is with religion, so it is with society. The interests of both are largely identical. The one is the basis of the other, so Burke says. How can we hope to continue a well ordered, law-respecting people, if we suffer to be extinguished within us those fine feelings which enable us to yield to prescriptive duties and time-honored customs the profound reverence they merit? Then such feelings no longer save us, how can we render to magistracy and authority that homage without which, magistracy soon loses its true dignity, and authority its salutary design?"

"From time out of mind it has been an accepted maxim, that, when a people fails by neglect in the common functions of piety, by neglect of law, by neglect of duty, it is entitled to be reformed by a more powerful force. It is the duty of the law to reverse its institution, and rules, then decay is not far off. The collected experience of all ages to this truth. Is it not then, of the very last importance, that we preserve in our inner-beings, fresh and uncorrupted, the springs of those deep, generous, reverent feelings? Reverence is not only a virtue—it is an element among virtues; on the other hand, irreverence is not alone an evil—it is the parent of a brood of lesser evils that are dangerous, because they operate insidiously, while we scarcely suspect their presence.

"The evil has made its appearance among us, let us hope it is not inextinguishable; let us hope it has not struck root so deeply that the axe cannot be laid upon it. That its present proportions will be gradually lessened, we have reason to believe, for here in our parish and elsewhere, are men, united under the banner of the holy name of our Saviour, who have taken up arms against it, and in the fact that they are combating it, with weapons forged in the armory of the church, is the surest hope its further progress will be arrested. It is refreshing to contemplate the aims of the Holy Name society, to do so is to feel, that notwithstanding we live in a period, when most things are valued, chiefly by their material worth, idealism has wholly abandoned us, that here in our midst it is cultivated with edifying results. Your society is doing with unflinching zeal, a splendid work. Aside from its personal object to do reverence to whatever is holy, it brings closer to our workaday affairs the softening influences of religion; it opposes itself as a barrier to erroneous doctrines which constantly assail our ears; it emphasizes the need of earnestness and regularity in the performance of our duties; it inculcates the solid, homely virtues; it urges the practice of clean speech and right living; in short, it seeks to fix in the thoughts of men, the ideal of high-minded manhood—an endeavor not more praiseworthy than wise, for to cherish an ideal is the better part of wisdom. Ideals have a more practical importance than we will willingly concede. They shed a brightness on our humblest doings before which the humdrum of everyday life disappears. Under the magic of their sustaining influence the roughest path is made a royal road to peace and content, our ideals can be just as real as we choose to make them; so long as we keep them pure and undimmed, they bring happiness into our lives—and a happy life is not the least useful one.

"No one can overstate the good that results from the work in which you are engaged, that good is real, it will endure because it is being accomplished by the irresistible force of example. There is in good example a widespread beneficence we cannot measure. If its effect is not always visible, it is nevertheless, nothing propagates more quickly or more abundantly than the example of manly action. In shaping the conduct of men, it is of more consequence that the wisest system of laws we could write upon our statute books. Laws though they be just and well devised are constraining, they are coercive. In good example, there is an inexpressible something that touches the chords of our finer nature; it invites our imitation; it kindles our freewill admiration. In a word, it acts on us by its intrinsic goodness. The example of one man persevering in an honorable endeavor is always a stimulus, a quickening influence for good, but when a considerable number of men unite, as the Holy Name society is united, in a work of uplift, they give to the world an example of incalculable weight, an example of increasing effectiveness, for in it is that which cannot perish."

Others who contributed to the evening's program were: James L. Donnelly in song; William F. Thornton in readings; Andrew McCarthy and Andrew Doyle in songs; Francis Deignan in violin selections; John McCaffrey in songs; Michael J. Johnson was the accompanist of the evening.

The officers of the Holy Name society are: President, Michael McDermott; vice president, John J. Sullivan; recording secretary, Charles R. Griffin; treasurer, Joseph J. O'Brien; financial secretary, Matthew Wholey; spiritual director, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin; consultants, James Lyons, Timothy Cullinane, Dennis Crowley, Michael Neilligan; banquet committee, James O'Sullivan, chairman; John Dalton, Edward Saunders, George Cahill, Joseph A. O'Brien, Matthew Wholey, Joseph Hamill, John J. Sullivan, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, treasurer, Charles R. Griffin, secretary.

THE PRIZE WINNERS

EXTRA
WON THE MEDALSHanchett and Vigeant Victors in High School Drill

Walter R. Hanchett of Co. A won the first prize, a gold medal, in the individual prize drill at the High school field day this afternoon. The second prize, a silver medal, was awarded to Napoleon Vigeant of Co. H.

REGIMENT ON PARADE

The 29th annual prize drill and field day of the Lowell High School regiment and annual exhibition in callisthenics by the young ladies of the high school were held at Spalding park this afternoon. This is the day that the boy and girl students look forward to with fond anticipations. In the first place they wish to show their parents and friends the result of the year's work in military drill and dumb-bell and wand and sword practice, while in the second place they strive for honors, both individually and collectively.

There were several thousand people at Spalding park when the exercises opened, shortly after two o'clock this afternoon. All of the high school students who did not drill were present, together with the parents and relatives of the students, also friends, former pupils of the school, and hundreds of persons who never attended the school. There was a grand display of colors in the grand stand and first and third base bleachers. Very prominent were the pennants bearing the initials of some of the companies of the boys' regiment. During the company drill the enthusiasts displayed the flag bearing the letter of the favorite company, the sight being a very pretty one.

The members of the boys' regiment met at the high school annex in Paige street at 12:30 o'clock. The privates and non-commissioned officers were attired in blue fatigue coats, duck trousers and brown leggings. The commissioned officers wore the regulation blue uniform with an abundance of gold braid and many of the young officers proudly displayed medals on their coats.

Route of Parade
Promptly at one o'clock the regiment headed by the Lowell Military band left the annex and marched through John street to Merrimack, to Central, to Church, to Andover, to High to Rogers street and thence to Spalding park where the companies were dismissed for a time.

The young ladies of the school were attired in white shirtwaists and white skirts. The officers of the battalions wearing blue suits with the insignia of rank on their arms and shoulders.

Johnson many pointers about Jeffries style of fighting.

The advent of Tom Flanagan into the Johnson camp is likewise a matter of great satisfaction to the negro's supporters. Flanagan, who trained many long distance runners, including Tom Loughborough, the Indian, will have supervision over Johnson's road work, which the fighter regards as one of the most essential features of his training.

Following his conference with Johnson, Delaney took occasion to deny a report from the east, that he had stated Jeff could not get in shape for the coming fight. "I didn't say anything of the kind," Delaney declared. "It is no secret that Jeffries and myself are not on the most cordial terms, but I'm not knocking him. In the name of all that's reasonable, why shouldn't Jeffries be able to get in trim? He is only 35, and he has been a mountaineer practically all his life. That kind of a man doesn't get quickly, but for that matter I could name a dozen men who fought for the world's championship after they were 40 years old."

MERRIMACK RIVER

Proposition to Improve It May be Defeated

The proposition to improve the Merrimack river from Haverhill to Lowell has received the jiu jitsu, but it is not down and out. The locality has been examined and the report submitted is unfavorable to the improvement, but interested parties have the privilege of an appeal. The following letter, having to do with this matter, has been received from the office of the U. S. engineer's office, Pemberton square, Boston, by Mayor Meehan:

Boston, Mass., May 23, 1910.
The Mayor, City of Lowell, Lowell, Mass.

Sir: It having come to the notice of the undersigned that you have expressed an interest in the pending proposition for the improvement of the Merrimack river from Haverhill to Lowell, you are hereby informed that the preliminary examination of the locality named, with a view to certain improvements therein, authorized by the act of congress approved March 3, 1899, has been made, and that the report submitted thereon is unfavorable to the improvement.

You are further notified that all interested parties have the privilege of an appeal from this conclusion to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, a permanent body sitting at Washington, D. C. to which all examinations and survey reports of this character are referred. Parties desiring to do so may be heard on appeal by the board, either orally or in writing. Written communications should be addressed to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, rooms 507, 510, Colorado building, Washington, D. C. and should be mailed in time to be in the possession of the said board within three weeks from the date of this communication. If oral hearings are desired, dates for the same may be arranged for by correspondence with the board.

You are requested to communicate the foregoing to any persons known by you to be interested in the improvement and who, not being known to this office, do not receive a copy of this communication. Very respectfully,
Edward Burt,
Lieut. Col. Corp of Engineers.

STEAMER LOST

The Crew Had Narrow Escape
From Drowning

ROCKLAND, Me., May 25.—The passenger steamer James T. Morse, which plies between Rockland and Bar Harbor was sunk at her berth today by the Boston-Bangor steamer Belfast. No lives were lost but 22 of the crew on the Morse had a miraculous escape. The Belfast was only slightly damaged and proceeded to Dainger.

A great hole was cut in the starboard bow, forward of the pilot house of the Morse about ten feet in width and nearly to the keelson. She sank almost immediately after the Belfast pulled away. The Belfast sustained some bent bow plates on both sides, but otherwise was not damaged.

In the bow of the James T. Morse were the quarters of five men, then a space about ten feet in width, then the quarters for 17 deck-hands, directly into the space between the two sets of quarters the Belfast cut a wedge-shaped opening about half the width of the Morse.

Although the 22 men were sleeping in these quarters all escaped without injury except Abner Critch, a deck-hand and native of New Foundland, who was pinned to his berth by falling beams and was rescued by Lee Vane, another deck-hand. The escape of the crew was considered wonderful.

There were six passengers on the Morse, but their staterooms were well aft and they were in no particular danger except they were given only a very few minutes in which to seek a refuge on the wharf.

The vessels were in contact about a minute as near as could be estimated and when the Belfast drew away the Morse immediately was flooded and 15 minutes after the crash was resting on the bottom of the dock.

The passengers, deckhands and three men saved little or nothing of their personal effects and were glad enough to escape with their lives.

The James T. Morse, commanded by Captain F. Winterbottom, lays over right at the southern berth of Tillson wharf, ready to connect for Bar Harbor on the arrival of the steamer from Boston. In order to make her berth the Boston steamer has to make a wide circle. The weather was very foggy this morning and the tide was low, making the docking conditions much worse than usual. When the Belfast, commanded by Captain Ezra W. Curtis, came across a shoal spot to the south of the wharf the rudder refused to obey, failing to take effect in the shoal water, about 200 feet from the wharf and the Morse.

Watchman D. H. Weed of the Morse saw that the Belfast was keeping straight on her course instead of altering it as she should do to go into her berth. Realizing the Morse was sure to be rammed he shouted to the sleeping passengers and crew and some rushed out but most of them were in their berths when the shock came.

Lighters soon were on hand taking out some of the freight. At low tide the Morse was under water up to the freight deck. The damage to the steamer was between $8000 and $10,000 but the loss on the freight was not known. It was estimated at nearly $10,000. Most of the freight was from Portland and local points, brought here last night by coastwise steamers.

The official telegraphed to Boston for divers, and William McKee, the builder, and they were expected here today. It was uncertain whether repairs will be made at Camden or East Boston.

SURPRISE PARTY
Mr. and Mrs. William Fulton moved into their new and well appointed home in Andrews street recently, and the occasion was marked by a surprise party to the prosperous and happy couple. A number of their friends dropped in upon them and for the time being took possession of their beautiful new home. The feature of the evening was the presentation of an elegant Morris chair to Mr. Fulton. The presentation was by Mrs. Isabella Kennedy and Mr. Fulton responded in an appreciative manner. Miss Phyllis McCord favored with vocal selections, "My Scotch Lassie," being the favorite. The Alases Nettle and May McCord were heard in dialogue and pleased immensely. Refreshments were served, and at a reasonable hour the guests left the happy couple in the Fulton's wishing the happy couple many years of prosperity, happiness and health.

MATRIMONIAL
Mr. Harry E. Pillsbury and Miss Isabelle E. Wheelock, both of Manchester, N. H., came to Lowell on Friday and were united in marriage here by Rev. R. A. Willmott at his residence in Beacon street.

JIMMIE DELANEY

Engaged to Coach Jack Johnson

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—There is joy in the Johnson camp as a result of the announcement that Jimmie Delaney, veteran maker of heavyweight champions, is to coach the negro for his fight with Jeffries. Johnson himself is highly elated. He figures that Delaney is the best man in the business to prepare him for the crucial battle of his career. This belief is based on the fact that not only can Delaney give him the fruits of 40 years of ring experience, but that the veteran who developed Jeffries knows more about the retired champion than anybody else and will be able to give

At two o'clock the exercises of the day were commenced, the first event on the program being the individual prize drill for boys, for which there were two prizes, a gold and silver medal, for the first and second prizes.
The Wand Drill
Next came the wand drill by the second battalion of girls. Then followed the Butt's manual by the boys. The Indian club drill by the first battalion of girls was a very pretty sight and there was a great deal of applause given the young ladies.

The company drill by the boys brought the friends of the several companies into prominence and as each company came on the field there was a waving of flags bearing the letter of the company which was being drilled.
The bump ball drill of Companies A and C of the girls' battalion was next in order after which came the drill by the ambulance corps of the boys' regiment, then the sword drill by the girl officers, after which came the regimental parade.
The affair came to a successful close with the awarding of the medals for the individual drill, the red and blue pennants for the first and second best drilled companies, and the sword for the captain of the best appearing company.
The prizes last year were awarded as follows:
Red pennant, first company prize, won by Capt. George Kirby, Co. E.
Blue pennant, second company prize, won by Capt. John A. Quinn, Co. B.
Sword, company of best appearance, won by Capt. Charles Enlund, Co. A.
Gold medal, first individual prize, won by Sergt. Harry D. Brown, Co. A.
Silver medal, second individual prize, won by Corp. Ercell A. Teeson, Co. A.
Company Movements
The company movements of the boys' regiment which was the feature of the day included the following:
Company formation and report to judges.
Open ranks. Inspection by judges.
Close ranks.
Form column squads and change direction.
Form column of two.
Form column of squads.
Exercize to the rear twice.
Form line to the left or right and move forward.
Execute company right.
Manual of Arms—present—right shoulder—left shoulder—charge bayonets—right shoulder—port—order—parade rest.
Form column of platoons.
Form line to the right or left.
Form column of squads.
Form column of platoons to the front.
Form company to the front.
Form column of squads and change direction.
Form company to the front and move forward.
Form column of squads and execute squads right or left about.
Form column of squads.
Report to judges.
The success of the field day was due in a large measure to the energetic work of Capt. Colby T. Kittredge, of the pay department of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, who is the military instructor and Miss Leah A. De Merritt, instructor of the girls' battalions.
The judges were:
Capt. Philip McNulty, Co. M, 8th Regt. M. V. M.; Capt. W. R. Jeyes, Co. G, 6th Regt. M. V. M. and Lieut. J. W. Peterson, Co. C, 6th Regt. M. V. M. The officer of the day was Capt. Ralph R. Mellon, Capt. Co. F.
The following members of the high school committee were present:
Franklin E. Johnson, Eugene F. Toomey, Edward T. Goward, John H. Pyne and Edmund Simpson. The awards, pennants and medals were awarded by His Honor, Mayor John F. Meehan.
Twenty-nine years ago four companies were formed into a battalion under the command of Major Wood. In 1880 a state regiment was formed among the schools outside of Boston with Col. Chase, then of Lowell, at its head. Four years later, however, the state regiment was disbanded, and a regiment of six companies was formed in Lowell. Frederick Lambert had the honor of being its first commander. Since that time the regiment has steadily increased in members and discipline, until now there are eight full companies of well drilled cadets.
Miss Mabel H. Hall became instructor of calisthenics and elocution last September. Her work in this position was ably carried on until April when, much to the girls' sorrow, she was obliged on account of ill health to give up her position for the remainder of the year. She had become well liked by everyone, and they regretted to lose her very much. Nevertheless they were very fortunate in securing Miss Leah A. DeMerritt to fill the vacancy for the remaining term. In spite of these interruptions the drill of the girls' battalions has progressed splendidly.
The officers of the regiment have distributed about 2500 soda checks to the members of the different companies. The checks are given to F. J. Campbell's corner drug store and the on-sight that will be made on Campbell's soda fountain after the drill can be imagined.

IN POLICE COURT
Sectional Feud From Atherton in Court
NON SUPPORT CASES WERE NUMEROUS
Judge Hadley Finds Against Husbanda Who Refuse to Support Their Wives and Children
Despite the fact that the Civil war is over, every now and then something comes to the surface to indicate that the breach between the north and south has not been entirely closed, and that there is considerable feeling. An evidence of this feeling was brought out very strongly in police court this morning during the hearing of the case of William Horne, charged with threatening James U. Brady.
Both reside in Warrenville. Horne was a former resident of South Carolina, while Brady, though not a veteran of the Civil war, had two witnesses on his side, John McCann and James Smith, who have no use for the southerners.
John McCann, a witness for the government, said that he was a veteran of the Civil war and had no use for "those southerners." He had seen them when he was following the flag and had backed against them then and now. He had heard Horne threaten Brady. He said that he had seen Horne with a gun in his "kicks" and that it was a well known fact that he always carried a pistol. In concluding his testimony, he said: "If the women would keep their mouths shut, the men would be the cause of it. I think the principal cause, though, is the frequent visits of rum to the town."

James Smith said that he saw the defendant going to get a gun to shoot a man.
For the defense Mr. Horne said that there had been considerable trouble in the neighborhood and that he knew that Mr. Brady had abused Mrs. Horne and on the night of May 11th when he returned from work he was informed that Brady had abused Mrs. Horne that afternoon. He saw Brady and invited him to come over, saying "I want to see you." Brady refused to come saying that he would see the defendant later. Mr. Horne said that he was a southerner having been brought up in South Carolina and said that while he was in that part of the country he always carried a gun but had not found it necessary to come to the north. He admitted that he and called Brady a vile name but said that he meant him no bodily harm and did not threaten to do him any harm.

The court, in summing up the evidence, said that if the women would keep their tongues from wagging and attend their homes it would obliterate a great deal of unnecessary trouble. He also said that he did not know what would happen if women had votes.
He, however, found the defendant guilty and ordered him under $50 bonds to keep the peace for six months.

Non Support Cases
Three non-support cases took up the greater portion of this morning's session of the police court.
Emile Lefebvre was charged with failing to provide proper support for his three minor children, Florence, Rose and Leo, and he admitted his guilt. According to the testimony offered the court, the children have been in the care of his mother-in-law and he has been out of town. Despite the fact that he had work in Salem he refused to contribute towards the support of the children and a warrant was issued for his arrest, the warrant being sent to Salem, but it seems that he was arrested through the streets yesterday and placed under arrest. He was placed under $200 bonds for his appearance before the court next Saturday.
Arthur Gore pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with failing to provide proper support for his minor children, Matilda and Edna, and the wife of the defendant, was not a very desirous one for a woman to live in.
He was found guilty and ordered to pay $5 a week to his wife.
Drunken Offenders
John Smith, a parole man from the state farm, will be returned to Bridge-willam.
William Gillis and John Fleming received direct sentences to the state farm.
Alfred Duran, who was released by the probation officer yesterday morning before the opening of court, was arrested again yesterday and this morning was ordered to pay a fine of $5. Philip Drouin was also fined $5. There were three first offenders, who were fined $2 each.

er, said that she and her husband were married about 21 years ago and that they had lived together but about one-quarter of that time. They had had family difficulties and separated and later would make up and live together only to separate again. She said that she could not stand him owing to his habits of intoxication.
Hubert said that he was willing to take care of his wife and child if she would only return to him, but that she had time and again refused to do so. He said that he had a good home for her if she wished to return but upon inquiry the court found out that the home which Hubert had was not a very desirous one for a woman to live in.
He was found guilty and ordered to pay $5 a week to his wife.

TWO VITAL THINGS REQUIRED IN TREATING SKIN DISEASES
In treating and curing Eczema and other well defined skin diseases, two vital things must be done. One is to exclude dust, germs and air from the diseased parts, and the other is to set up the healing process at the same time. The new medical preparation called Cadum accomplishes both these results so effectively that the itching is stopped as soon as it is applied, and the sore parts heal up in a wonderfully short time. Anyone with skin trouble can test Cadum by getting a 10-cent box at any drug store, and thus personally realize the power of this new compound, which is just as effective in the cure of pimples, blotches, blackheads, eruptions, acne, herpes, scaly skin, rash, sores, chafings, etc.

WOMAN A WITNESS

At the Trial of "Big Bill" Keliher Today

BOSTON, May 25.—Wilson W. Lockhart, the young man who was accused with George W. Coleman of embezzlement from the national city bank of Cambridge resumed his place on the witness stand today in the trial of William J. Keliher charged with aiding and abetting Coleman. Although Lockhart has admitted making false entries on the books of the bank he will go unpunished, the indictment against him having been not passed by District Attorney Asa P. French. It was said this action was taken on account of a statement by Coleman that absolved Lockhart from any connection with the defalcation.

Lockhart on cross examination mentioned the names of several women who enjoyed Keliher's hospitality, among them being Miss Lucille Chalmers and a Miss Hunt. The district attorney stated that he would call them later. These women, Lockhart said, were all at Keliher's house at Winthrop. There was a distinct hint of interest and a

AUTO TURNED TURTLE

Driver Was Killed and Occupants of Car Injured

MERRIMACK, N. H., May 25.—While running at a high rate of speed over the highway between Manchester and this town late yesterday, a 45-horse power automobile owned by Robert Schneider, a Manchester brewer, turned turtle and the other occupants were killed and severely injured.

The driver was W. J. Gould of Orange, Mass. He was vice president and chief salesman of an automobile firm in Orange. He had recently sold the car to Mr. Schneider and was giving a demonstration at the time of the accident.

HOTEL BURNED

Fire Destroyed Building at Bluff Point

ALBANY, N. Y., May 25.—The Hotel Champlain on Lake Champlain was destroyed by fire today.

The Hotel Champlain was located at Bluff Point, N. Y. It had not been opened for the summer season as yet so there were no guests in the house. It was one of the largest and finest hotels in northern New York.

The fire broke out shortly before 2 o'clock this morning and although the fire department at Plattsburg, three miles away, was summoned it was unable to cope with the flames which soon destroyed the immense hotel and annex. The cause of the fire has not yet been ascertained. The hotel was owned by the Delaware & Hudson company. The hotel was to have been opened for the summer season on June 15 and there were about sixty employees in the building when the fire was discovered by a housekeeper.

It started in the central part of the main structure on one of the upper floors and spread quickly. The other occupants of the building were aroused and succeeded in escaping, some of them scrambling down over the broad verandas. Although all of the hotel were thought to have escaped, the flames, an electrician named Herbert was later reported missing and may have lost his life.

Two companies of regulars from the barracks two miles away assisted in fighting the flames. The fire could be seen for miles up and down Lake Champlain.

LIQUOR DEALER

BIDDEFORD, Me., May 25.—The stiff sentence received by a local liquor dealer in several years was imposed on Stephen Travers by Judge Cleaves in the municipal court yesterday. Travers was fined $500 and sentenced to 18 months in jail. He was ordered, also, to serve 18 additional months in default of payment of the fine.

STOCK MARKET
WAS VERY WEAK AT THE CLOSE TODAY

Prices were lowest of the day—Losses in Reading were recorded—Fears of an Unknown Development Impending

NEW YORK, May 25.—A moderate degree of activity accompanied a comprehensive rise in the opening prices of stocks in which the Canadian group was quite prominent. That stock rose 2 points, Consolidated Gas and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. & Western, N. Y. Central and Baltimore & Ohio large fractions. Bethlehem steel sold at a decline of 1. Opening prices were the best as liberal selling orders were distributed driving down the leading stocks at a good fraction below yesterday's closing. Canadian Pacific lost half of its advance and there were declines in Chicago Great Western of 1-1/2 and Reading and Amn. Steel Foundries 1. International Harvester and Amn. Hide & Leather pf. moved up a point.

The dull and sluggish action reflected the absence of general interest in the market. The neglect was ascribed to the desire to await clearer light on general conditions. General Chemical also sold at an advance of 4. Reading fell 1-1/2, U. P. 1-1/4, Brooklyn Union Gas 1-3/8, S. P. Amal. Copper, American Smelting and American Locomotive 1. Bonds steady.

After a long interval of neglect the market started downward with Reading and U. P. leading the decline. Activity increased at the expense of values with selling converging on Reading, U. P. and U. S. Steel. Losses of a point or more were numerous. Reading gave way 2-3/4, U. P. 2-3/8, St. Paul, Southern Pacific, American Smelting and American Locomotive 2, and U. S. Steel and Amalgamated Copper 1-1/2 to 1-3/4. The railroad bill debate in the United States senate affected the market.

The market closed very weak at lowest prices. Stocks continued to come out with disquieting effect on sentiment, causing fears of some unknown development impending. Losses in Reading reached 3-1/2, Central Leather 3-4, U. P. 3-1/8, and American Smelting 2-3/4.

BOXING BOOTS

AT WASHINGTON PARK TOMORROW EVENING

The members of the Gladstone Athletic club are assured of a good program at the regular meeting to be held at Washington park Thursday evening of this week. The feature bout will be between Jimmy Moriarty of this city and Young Saxe of Boston. They will box 12 rounds at 145 pounds, and as both men are in fine physical condition and anxious to score a victory, good entertainment is sure to be provided for the members. Young Saxe has a good reputation, having such men as Jimmy Gardner of this city, Unk Russell, Arthur Cote, George Phelan and several others of that class. Moriarty, who has been travelling about the country of late, trimming all in his class, will be especially anxious to win, as a victory will put him in line to meet Billy Rolfe at the next meeting of the club.

The evening will be between Tommy Moran and Teddy Murphy, the latter of England. Young Pendergast and Young Smith will be one of the preliminaries, and George Jones and Harry Pappalopoulos will meet in a six round affair. The usual membership dues of 50 cents will be assessed each member.

NASHUA POLICE

SCORED BY PRESIDENT OF THE COMMON COUNCIL

NASHUA, N. H., May 25.—President Harry Gregg of the common council, an ardent motorist and clerk of the new Nashua Automobile club, declared in the common council meeting last night that the manner in which the Nashua police department had handled the automobile traffic since the addition of the mounted officer had been "an abuse to New Hampshire and Massachusetts."

His remark was occasioned by a resolution introduced calling for the appropriation of $250 for a motorcycle for the police department. The request for the $250 was in order that the officer on automobile duty might handle the automobile traffic better than he can on an ordinary bicycle.

PETITIONED INTO BANKRUPTCY
BOSTON, May 25.—Herbert E. Dodge of the leather firm of E. H. Dodge was petitioned into bankruptcy by creditors. The liabilities are stated to be $50,000.

COURT IS RUSHING

Great Amount of Legal Business Already Transacted

One Hundred Twenty-four Cases Disposed of at This Term of Court Up to Date—38 Trials and 86 Settlements—Auto Case on Trial Today

Today's session of the superior court broke down unexpectedly this noon on account of the sudden illness of Lawyer Haven G. Hill, who was stricken down in his office this morning while preparing to go to court. Mr. Hill was one of the counsel in the case of Rordan vs. Adams, which was to have been tried this afternoon. During the forenoon, while preparing to go to court, he was seized with an attack of illness which necessitated his removal to his home in Fort Hill avenue in a carriage.

This afternoon he was reported as resting comfortably, while the physician summoned to attend him, gave out the encouraging report that his ailment is not of a serious nature. The list has been so arranged that this case was to dove-tail in and keep the court busy until tomorrow morning when the case of the Bigelow Carpet company vs. Boston H. Wright et al., a controversy over land rights in Market street and Carpet Lane is to be on, and when it was announced that the Rordan case could not be tried court adjourned until tomorrow morning. The case of O'Dowd vs. Stiles which was to have been tried today was settled at the 11th hour.

Business Rushing
Clerk Ralph Smith in the superior court today, in response to a query by one of the lawyers in attendance at the session, stated that already 124 cases have been disposed of at the present date for the court. Of these 38 have been tried, while the others were all settled. Some of those settled proceeded as far as the short list before the settlement was effected, while in a few cases the witnesses had assembled and the trials were about to begin when the settlement was announced. In one case some of the evidence had been heard.

That Clerk Smith's rushed the court's business to the satisfaction of the most exacting lawyer is evidenced by the fact that so many cases were disposed of in the seven weeks that court has been in session. Of the 38 cases tried, three alone took up two weeks and four days, 55 being tried within five weeks, or over seven a week.

Blowse-Smith Case
The case of Blowse vs. Smith, which was opened yesterday, was concluded this forenoon.

An Auto Case
The next case opened was that of James Dickinson vs. Archibald McClellan for personal injuries, in the sum of $2500. The plaintiff's declaration alleges that on Aug. 3, 1909, while the plaintiff was standing in Washington street, near School, in Boston, he was run into, knocked down and injured by an automobile owned by the defendant. The defendant's answer is a general denial. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant this noon.

DRYDOCK DEWEY

Was Sunk Because of Carelessness

MANILA, May 25.—It is the general opinion that the sinking yesterday of the drydock Dewey was due to carelessness rather than a deliberate purpose on the part of the station employees, who are Japanese, to cause damage.

The experts declare that the great floating dock which was towed from the United States at much expense will be saved, despite the likelihood that it will be submerged before tomorrow morning.

The port side including the pumps was submerged today and partly resting on the bottom. The starboard was still exposed, but was settling slowly. A tug was waiting to assist when the sea was calmer. The electrical machinery which operates the valves is certainly badly damaged.

MONTH'S MIND MASS

A month's mind mass for the repose of the soul of the late Hannah Mangon was celebrated at St. Michael's church this morning at eight o'clock by Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor of the church. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends of the deceased.

The choir sang the Gregorian mass. A quilt throwing contest of 50 points will be waged by the assessors, Messrs. Gallagher, Whelan and Heland, against the board of registrars, Messrs. Carnahan, Bryant and Roddy. Tree Warden Thomas P. Carriek and Highway Surveyor Thomas Carriek will play a game of forty seven, 25 points, to see who will pay the expense of an outing to Boston and Revere beach and a swim at the beach.

Of course there will be speaking and Senator Hildbrand and Rep. Erson R. Burlew have been invited. Rep. George H. Stevens and Town Clerk John W. Brennan, who is the democratic candidate for the legislature in the district will also speak.

JOHN M. FARRELL

Real Estate and Auctioneer
Office, 162 Market Street, Lowell, Mass. Telephone 2258-5.

Farm and personal property auction sale Tuesday, May 31st, at 1 o'clock p.m., at the farm known as the Tyngsborough town farm, now owned by the O'Brien Bros. Situated on the Old Nashua road, near Long pond, 10 minutes' walk from the electric cars; 10 minutes' walk from Lakeview park, Mountain Rock and Long Pond, two of the handsomest sheets of water in New England.

The farm consists of a 2 1/2-story house of 16 rooms, a barn, 40x60 feet; corn house, hen house and 110 acres of land, more or less, that is in the highest state of cultivation. Has 130 thrifty apple trees, 10 pears, 10 plum and cherry trees.

The house is in the best of repair inside and out, has 16 large rooms, the first floor has six rooms, pantry, ice chest built in large shed; second floor has 10 well lighted sleeping rooms, with two large unfinished attic rooms above that could be made into four good rooms. New hard wood floors have been laid down stairs and the entire house has been papered and painted inside. Not a cent to be laid out. There is a good cellar under the house with bulk head, and divided into dairy and vegetable cellars. The house sets back from the road, has a sloping lawn front and side, has fine maple shade trees and is very pleasant place on the corner of three roads and sets up high. The barn is 40x60 feet, will tie up 18 to 20 cows, plenty of room for horses, holds 75 to 100 tons of hay, has grain room, harness room, is high posted with door front and back, can drive right through, collar under the barn is high posted and well lighted. You can drive a double team in and turn around.

The farm consists of 110 acres of land, divided into about 30 acres of tillage, the rest in pasture and woodland and is in a high state of cultivation. A large number of cattle have been kept on the place and there is now newly seeded this spring and last fall, five acres of oats, three acres of rye, and three acres of English hay, that has been worked and heavily manured. There is about five acres all plowed and plenty of manure on the farm to either lay it down to grass or plant it the purchaser sees fit. There is some lumber and plenty of wood on the farm.

The personal property consists in part of a lot of household furniture, 300 double chickens, 10 extra good young Holstein cows, that are of good size and heavy milkers; one pair of young bay horses that were bought green a little over a year ago, that are sound, kind, extra fine workers and good drivers, five and six years old; a better team does not live. Look at them if you want horses. Also single and double harnesses; market wagon; two-horse dumpcart that will do city work; two one-horse farm wagons with bay rigging; two-horse sleds, sled and wagon bodies; harness spreader; new lunging; horse bay rake; hay tedder; wheelbarrow, good one; field roller; double spring tooth harrow; spike tooth harrow; cultivator; plows, chains, whiffletrees, grubstakers, lot small tools too numerous to mention; one two-horse mowing machine, new last year; lot of fine lumber in one-inch boards, 6x6 alls, 2-in. plank, etc.; milk ice chest, trough with cover for cooling milk; 60 R. 1. Red hens and lot of young chickens. Also two riding sleighs, one traverso runner pine.

This is one of the best farms in this locality and is in a high state of cultivation. The buildings are in good repair and are situated in a good healthy place, with handsome shade trees, within five-cent car fare of Lowell. For a home, hotel for summer boarders, where could you find it equal in New England. Come and look the place over. Make inquiries at the farm or the office of the auctioneer.

Terms of sale: $500 in cash must be paid as a deposit on the farm as soon as sold; personal property, cash.

GRAND SUCCESS

May Festival Held in Aid of St. Mary's Parish

St. Mary's May festival, which opened at Associate hall last evening, was a great success. By nine o'clock when Harry Kittredge announced the first dance, the hall was well filled and from then until the entertainment ended there was always something happening. The decorations about the hall were handsome. Pink and white appeared to be the predominating colors. From the variety and tastefulness of the decorations a keen rivalry appeared to exist among the ladies in charge of the different booths and perhaps from this rivalry was due the attractive and original dressing of the different booths.

Most of those who made up the gathering were residents of Collingville and from the number of those present the Lakeview car line last evening must have worked on a holiday schedule. And, speaking of the Lakeview car line, the company itself was represented at the festival by some of its popular employees.

As was expected, the dancing became the most popular form of entertainment. The floor was comfortably filled and the dancers were as fine a gathering of young people as has ever gathered over the floor of Associate hall. Those who attended the event in order to enjoy the dancing were more than well repaid for their visit; no portion of the program being more enjoyable.

A number of songs and recitations were a pleasing feature of the evening. The young women entertaining being Miss Gladys Hamilton, Miss Ida Gordon and Miss Bridget A. Sullivan. A different musical program will be given on each night of the festival.

Tonight and tomorrow night the affair will continue and the money that is cleared will be used to improve St. Mary's church in Collingville.

The successful opening of the festival greatly pleased Father Walsh and his hard working assistants and it is their hope that even more people will find it convenient to both aid a worthy cause and secure a night of enjoyment for themselves by attending tonight and tomorrow night the festival in Associate hall.

The members of the reception committee are: Patrick J. Mead chairman, Harry Burke, Luke McDonald, Bernard Makulra, John Brennan, Edward Brennan, Thomas Coleman, William Bromley, John Barrett, George Fogarty, Francis Klerman and John Gorman.

The officers of the dance were: Patrick Silk, floor director; assistants, John Sullivan and Miss Mary Burke; aids, Miss Sarah Silk, Luke McDonald, Bridget Sullivan and E. Brennan.

The Lowell table is presided over by Miss Anna C. Sullivan as matron, and she is assisted by Misses Agnes Murphy, Mary and Helen Fogarty, Helen O'Sullivan, Margaret McFarther, Sarah A. Kelley, Josephine Kelley, Mollie O'Brien, Rose Hanlon, Mary Doherty, Vera McArdle, Mary Fox, Eva Connell, Margaret M. Lynch, Helen Mahoney, Susie Gardner, Helen Donahue, Bessie Rogers, Ida Gordon, Josephine Ort, Mrs. M. G. Lowe, Mrs. T. O'Sullivan, Mrs. John Hilland, Messrs. Luke McDonald, Harry R. Burke, R. J. Vigneault, Henry Watson, Philip O'Brien and Leo McCarthy, Mrs. J. Harrison and Mrs. C. McCarthy. Among the articles on this table is a season's pass to all of the New England league baseball games in this city, donated by the local management.

The Boston table is presided over by Mrs. Edwin Scofield, matron, assisted by Misses Della Browne, Alice McDonald, Winnie McCarrick, Della Callery, Mary Callery, Eva Canney, Irene Handley, Virginia McDonald, Mary McDonald, Bridget Sullivan, Bridget Kennedy, Flora McDonald and Mrs. John Callery.

On the St. Mary's table Miss Mary Fenlon is matron, and her assistants are Misses Mary Dunn, Mary Burke, Mary O'Reilly, Susan Fenlon, Lena Collins, Alice Gallagher, Catherine Burke, Catherine Kennedy, Bridget Logue, Lauretta Kinsele, Della Laffey, Annie Harrington, Martha Miles, Mrs. John Fenlon and Mrs. Elizabeth Collins.

At the tonic booth is John McDonald, Frank Klerman, George Fogarty, Harold Harrison and John Gorman. The refreshment booth is in charge of Mrs. Patrick Silk, Sr., and her assistants are Mrs. Henry Burke, Mrs. John Brennan, Mrs. William Whelton, Mrs. Timothy Brennan, Mrs. Patrick Mack, Mrs. Hugh Nesby, Mrs. Julia Murphy, Mrs. Patrick Silk, Jr., Mrs. Francis Klerman, Mrs. James Costello, Mrs. Frank Gleason, Mrs. Willette, Mrs. John Hilland and Miss Della Laffey.

On the candy table Miss Marion Briscoe is chairman and her assistants are Misses Catherine Cullinan, Louisa Silk, Rita Bennett, Ruby Willette, Edith Mullen and Margaret Whelton.

The Holy Name table is in charge of Mrs. G. P. Hilland, and she is assisted by Mrs. Thomas Spellman, Mrs. James Mahoney, Mrs. Mary Richardson, Miss Mary Kiernan and Miss Rose Gorman. The Sacred Heart table is looked after by Miss Margaret Silk, chairman, assisted by Misses Hattie McDonald, Mary McDonald, Mary Costello, Belle Gleason, Katherine Riley, Elizabeth McNamara, Josephine Culbeck, Margaret Riley, Sarah Silk, Bridget Grane and Mrs. Patrick Silk.

John Fenlon had charge of the ticket booth.

SEWING CLUB MEETS

A delightful sewing bee was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Kathryn V. Box, 7 Lyon street. Sewing was indulged in until 9.30, when refreshments were served and a delightful musical program brought the evening to a close. Those who participated in the evening's entertainment were: Mary Munghaven, Helen Ahlberg, Nellie Keville, Agnes Keville, Kathryn Box and Sadie Box. Miss Margaret Box accompanied during the evening.

MEMORIAL DAY

Spanish War Veterans to Parade

Gen. Adelbert Ames camp, United Spanish War Veterans, has completed arrangements for Memorial day.

The members of the camp, in uniform, will meet at Memorial hall in time to leave the quarters at 9.25 o'clock. At 9.35 o'clock the Lowell Cadet band will report at the armory in Westford street to escort the squads from the four militia companies, which will form a provisional company, as escort to the camp, to Memorial hall. There will also be an additional squad from Company G, whose commander, Capt. Walter H. Jones, is a member of the camp, to act as a firing squad.

The members of the camp will leave Memorial hall at 9.25 o'clock and pass in review before the members of the city government, who will be on the front steps of the city hall. The route of march will be through Merrimack to Central, to Gorham streets, and St. Patrick's cemetery where the usual service of the Spanish War Veterans will be carried out over the grave of Thomas Cashman, who was a member of Company K of the First United States Volunteer Engineers. A priest from St. Peter's church will officiate at the grave.

From there the camp will march to the Edison cemetery, where the service will be held over the grave of Frank Yarnold, who was a member of Co. C of the Ninth Massachusetts Infantry. Rev. James E. Gregg, pastor of the Kirk Street Congregational church, will officiate at the ceremonies.

The camp will then march to the Westford street armory, where lunch will be served in the mess hall under the auspices of Edith Prescott Volcott auxiliary. In the afternoon the camp will take part in the usual military parade with the Grand Army Veterans. Commander G. E. Sutherland, the official head of the camp, will be in full charge of the program for the day.

The national colors and the Union Jack will be carried this year, as for several years past, by Duncan Bowers and Albert Richardson, and the color guard will be Alexander E. Mitchell and George E. Worthen, Jr.

All of the graves of the Spanish War Veterans will be decorated, whether they were in the past members of the local camp or not. Some 60 stones are also on the way from the federal government, to be placed over the graves of veterans. Every detail of the Memorial day ceremonies has been worked out and the camp is fully prepared to make the usual splendid showing.

The committee of the ladies' auxiliary to have charge of the lunch on Memorial day and other details has already been named and is as follows: Mrs. Blanche Kelly, chairman; Mrs. Alice Goodwin, Mrs. Ella Sutherland, Mrs. Jennie Keyes, Mrs. Lena Lachance, Mrs. Melissa Ellis, Mrs. Isabelle Ellis, Mrs. Edith Chandler, Mrs. Annie Dempsey, Mrs. Jennie Everett, Mrs. Annie Bowden, Miss Elizabeth Larkin, Mrs. Margaret Bellamy, Miss Ella Sloane and Mrs. Julia Wenden.

POLICE CHIEF ACCUSED
CLEVELAND, O., May 25.—Charges were filed with Mayor Rader yesterday charging Chief of Police Kohler, known throughout the country as the "Golden Rule" chief, with gross immorality, habitual drunkenness and disobedience of orders of his superior. The charges were filed by A. C. K. Schoeneman, an attorney, and David J. Brown, a contractor. Neither of the complainants would discuss the charges in any way or say whether they were acting as individual citizens.

DON'T FORGET THURSDAY BARGAIN DAY

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Court Middlesex, Foresters of America, held a class initiation in Foresters' hall Monday night, 25 candidates being introduced to the ritual of the order. The deputy, Albert McDougal, as "Robin Hood," assisted by J. W. Downing, J. A. Graham, T. J. Quinn, J. Clavin and J. J. Magee, as the merry men; J. H. Hickey, P. Brick, P. Donovan, C. J. Martin, O. C. Nelson as Indians; D. H. Quinn, J. T. Kenefick, as guides; J. H. Condon, color bearers; J. I. Dunn, instructor, and H. J. Scanlon organist, performed the ceremony of initiating the candidates into the mysteries of forestry in an impressive manner.

The auditors made their report for the quarter, showing the court to be in a good condition as regards sickness, finances, and in point of membership. At the next meeting plans will be started towards forming a debating club, so as to increase the interest in the court's affairs. After the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a good entertainment was given; also remarks on the order by some of the grand court officers and the deputy and on the court by the chief ranger.

Pilgrim Fathers

Bay State colony, Pilgrim Fathers, celebrated the 24th anniversary of its inception with an entertainment and supper at Post 120 hall in Merrimack street last night. There was a large attendance, the members turning out in large numbers. There were also a number of invited guests including two special car loads of guests from Nashua and Lawrence.

A business meeting was held, followed by an entertainment after which supper was served.

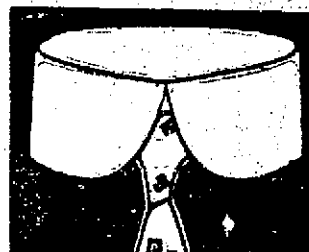

The entertainment program was as follows: Opening address, Dennis J. Sheehan, governor of the colony; duet, the Misses Burns and Gormley; reading, Wm. F. Thornton; solo, James E. Donnelly; remarks, Frank McNally, supreme trustee; solo, Miss May White; remarks, Louis A. Kane of Lawrence, deputy supreme governor; solo, Edward J. Sheehan; mandolin solo, Master Henry Sheehan; address, Mr. Armington of Nashua, governor of Governor Wentworth colony of that city; reading, Miss Green; solo, Miss Doyle; remarks, E. S. Emery, deputy supreme.

The Lawrence and Nashua guests returned to their homes by special car at the conclusion of the affair.

Foresters of America

The regular meeting of Court Merrimack, 11, F. O. A., was held last evening in Grafton hall, and considerable business of importance was transacted. The report of the delegates to the grand court convention which was held in Haverhill last week, was laid over until the next meeting when a complete report will be made.

Remarks were offered under good and welfare by James J. Gallagher,

BODY OF A MAN

Carried Though City. Sewerage System

BOSTON, May 25.—Through a section of the city sewerage system there was carried a human body last night while watchers scanned the debris at the outlet in the hope of recovering it after its foul journey. The body was that of John Gorham, a laborer, who had been overcome by sewer gas and had tumbled to the bottom while working in a manhole in South Boston during the afternoon.

DANDRUFF GOES IN TWO WEEKS, OR MONEY BACK

Your money back if Parisian Sage isn't the best hair tonic—the best hair grower—the best hair saver—you ever used, you be the judge.

It's really a wonder what a phenomenal sale Parisian Sage has made for itself in America in a few years. And what a multitude of people have been cured of falling hair, dandruff and itching scalp by its use.

And now the American women praise Parisian Sage for its peculiar ability to turn harsh, faded, lustreless hair into fresh, beautiful, silky and lustrous hair in a few days.

Parisian Sage is today the favorite hair dressing and tonic of discriminating Americans, not because of sensational methods of advertising, but because it is the only hair rejuvenator that will do just what it is advertised to do.

It kills the dandruff germ and cures dandruff, stops falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks. It doesn't. Carter & Sherburne will give you your money back.

"Parisian Sage cleaned my scalp from all dandruff and stopped the dreadful itching of my scalp which was very bad, and I think it is a very fine tonic. I am glad to tell you what it did for me." Your friend, Mrs. Olive Edmund, 6 Riverside Ave., Adrian, Mich., Nov. 5, 1909.

"I found Parisian Sage all right for the hair. A very good dandruff cure." Yours respectfully, Lydia A. Wood, Chester, Pa., Nov. 21, 1909. If you haven't tried Parisian Sage, get a large 50 cent bottle today. Sold by druggists everywhere, and by Carter & Sherburne. It is a delightful dressing, not sticky or greasy, and is a great favorite with the ladies who desire lustrous, luxuriant hair. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, all charges prepaid, by the American makers, G. H. G. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

INEXPENSIVE GRADUATING EXERCISES.

In many cities throughout the country the school authorities have arranged to prevent any outlay for dresses in connection with the graduating exercises. This will be appreciated by the parents who have made sacrifices to keep their daughters at high school long enough to complete the course, and as for the others, they will not object to have the old custom of personal display abandoned. It is only at the high school that there is any unnecessary display in connection with the closing exercises. It is well to make the exercises at the high school equally plain and simple so far as dress is concerned. Let the substantial results of thorough training be shown rather than the superficiality of dress.

DON'T LEAVE HORSES UNHITCHED.

It is absolutely dangerous to leave any horse unhitched on the public streets at the present time owing to the vast number of automobiles that are shooting to and fro and giving all kinds of strange "hunks" and snorts. Instances are recorded daily where horses left unhitched are frightened by automobiles and run away while the driver is absent. A young girl was almost killed by a runaway of this kind in East Boston Tuesday, the pair having been left unhitched while the driver entered a store on business. A horse left standing unhitched on South street yesterday ran away and did much damage before being stopped. As it was the animal run into a plate glass window but it was fortunate that nobody was killed. This leaving horses unhitched on the streets is a menace to public safety and must be stopped.

THE LAWRENCE INDICTMENTS.

Judging from the comments of the Lawrence press upon the recent indictments of officials of that city it would appear that the people are rightly conscious of their disgrace. There have been many similar cases of indictment in the past in Lawrence and yet there have been few convictions. It is alleged that in several instances where indictments were brought, the cases never came to trial. This must have been the fault of the district attorney unless that official found that the evidence was not sufficient to convict.

A mere indictment does not prove that the party indicted is guilty. The Lawrence officials are, therefore, presumed to be innocent until proven guilty, and it is to be hoped that the courts will decide this matter one way or the other in the immediate future.

It must be said that it would be very surprising indeed that no trouble should result from the method in which political fights were conducted in the city of Lawrence. It would be surprising, too, if Mayor White escaped without an attempt to "get back at him," because he has made some very bitter attacks upon public men. Such aggressiveness always makes enemies and it seems to have been Mayor White's desire to multiply his enemies or at least to lay them to the limit of his power. If they have succeeded in having him indicted nobody need be surprised. The question of his guilt, however, like that of the other men indicted, will be settled not by politicians but by a court of justice, and the trial should be ordered as soon as possible, in justice to the men and to the city of Lawrence whose reputation is involved.

Let us hope the city of Lawrence has learned a lesson that will cause her citizens to realize that they themselves are responsible for the present state of affairs, in having elected unreliable men to office, some of whom had had official records standing against them. But Lawrence is not the only city that has had a spasm of this political foolishness which bars able and good men from office and elevates sensational disturbers, demagogues and political humbugs.

COMPULSORY SETTLEMENT OF RAILROAD STRIKES.

The time is not far distant when all labor disputes in the service of quasi public corporations will be submitted to arbitration. Compulsory arbitration on railroads has been in force in New Zealand for some time and is working to the entire satisfaction of the labor unions. When a demand for an increase in wages is made by the men the corporation must either grant it or else open its books to the court of arbitration. This is something a railroad hates to do. It is against the law to strike. Indeed, out of 31 demands at different times made in New Zealand the company yielded in 27, showing its unwillingness to show its books and its figures.

Why would not the same rule work well here? The United States is slow to adopt any reform relative to the settlement of labor disputes, mainly, it is presumed, for constitutional reasons, but with common carriers engaged in serving the public it seems that such interference would be warranted under the constitution. So great has been the loss inflicted upon the public in great railroad strikes that some mode of preventing such conflicts in the future must be adopted. The public is the chief sufferer in such strikes, and for this reason the government should provide some general mode of settlement such as is afforded by compulsory arbitration.

The Labor Bureau of this country is looking into the workings of the Canadian industrial disputes act with a view to enlightening the American people upon its workings. That law forbids strikes under penalty in all public utility corporations until the matters in dispute have been fully investigated by an official board which will afterwards inform the public as to the facts in the case. Boards of investigation and conciliation are provided for under the law and are obliged to act in each dispute.

The law has been in operation since 1907, and it has been used in fifty-nine disputes involving 65,000 employees and in forty-five cases a satisfactory settlement without a strike had been secured. The law seems to be far ahead of any put in operation in this country where the bodies derive their powers to act solely from one side or the other, and where one body says there is nothing to arbitrate the board's functions are at an end. It can advise but cannot compel a settlement.

SEEN AND HEARD

It might sound like a joke to say that John Rothgang hadn't had a wooden leg it would not have been long until he had one, but such is the fact, nevertheless. Rothgang, who is the driver of a mail wagon, was run over by C. Calbeck, tuck in East 17th street in New York.

"There's the gruffest man I ever saw," said Patrolman Ungar, as he ran to Rothgang's assistance and saw how easily he was taking it. "I'll call an ambulance," he cried to the man lying in the street.

"Ambulance nothing!" said Rothgang. "Get a carpenter. That's a wooden leg."

Mrs. Catherine Calbeck Harley, said to be 63 years old, and charged by her daughters with being a flirt, spending large sums for dress and jewelry money on her young husband, has been temporarily restrained by a court order at Chicago from continuing the alleged dissipation of the fortune of $65,000 left by her late husband, Capt. James C. Calbeck, father of the plaintiffs. The daughters, Mrs. Clara Wood and Mrs. Patricia Sheel, alleged in their petition that their mother considered herself a "heartbreaker" despite her age, and in her attempts at rejuvenation made fair to deprive the daughters of their inheritance.

"Never more than one trouble at a time. Some people bear three—all they have had, all they have now, and all they expect to have."

When a negro was arrested the other day for wandering around the streets, he wore one of those invincible smiles. When he was taken before the magistrate he was still smiling.

"What's your name?" asked the magistrate.

"Ah, don't know, sah," smiled the negro.

"Where do you live?"

"Ah, don't know, sah."

"Where do you work?"

"At the 'tem hotel, sah."

The magistrate thought that perhaps there was some truth in the negro's place of employment, so he thought he would see if the negro knew any of the students in the college near this particular hotel.

"Do you know any of the students at 'tem college?"

"No, sah," answered the negro, his smile bigger than ever. "Ah, nebber goes in de bar!"—Philadelphia Times.

THE CALL OF THE TREES
Dream voices of the twilight
Upon the drifting breeze,
Across the years there follows
The whisper of the trees.
The ripple of the maples
Where memory entwines—
The dream song of the cedars—
The murmur of the pines.

The clamor of the fray,
I hear them calling, calling
From far and far away.
The call of little voices
That whisper soft and low
On lost winds of the twilight
From long and long ago.

They whisper of the springtime
When life first stirred a dream
Of love in youth's sweet morning
By vale and singing stream;
Of orchard, lane and meadow
Two dreamers used to know
Through tangled bud and blossom—
The drift of April snow.

They speak of vanished seasons
Before the world grew old—
Before the heart grew heavy
Within the tolling fold;
Before the dawn of reason
Upon the dreamer's back
Had left him worn and weary
Upon a lone stone track.

They call across the shadows,
In whispers from above
An evocation of childhood—
A baby's cry and sob.
Just as they used to mingle
When early dusk would creep
Their crowding where the mother sang
Her little boy to sleep.

The city lights have beckoned
The dreamer and his dream;
The bugle call has sounded
To where the sabers gleam;
The storm and strife of battle
Loud echo on the breeze,
But over all there follows
The whisper of the trees.

The call of little voices
That whisper from above
An evocation of childhood—
A lullaby of love.
The ripple of the maples
Where memory entwines—
The dream song of the cedars—
The murmur of the pines.

TO COME BACK

NOT TO THE OLD HOME BUT OLD TIME FORM

A wide range of men, not individuals or immediately interested in the prize ring, will watch with keen personal attention to see if James Jeffries "can get back." Here is a man once doing with amazing success the most difficult, dangerous and taxing of physical tasks. A fight calls for the highest strength, even temper, quickness, dexterity and skill, all exerted after months of patient preparation, whose fruits must be plucked or lost in moments of extreme tension, when seconds are as long years, in their earnings. Once successful in this to a notable degree, Jeffries has wandered. The years have taken their toll. His once has ebbed strength, as Delilah clipped Samson's locks. Time has passed, in which the slow physical habits of leisure have been acquired. The very nervous system, let alone muscular fibre, both once schooled to lightning action, decision and disregard of pain and peril, have had time to be as used to those of other men in playing peace and quiet.

Can he "get back"? Experience is all against him. The moral and physical laws are both inexorable. What a man sows that shall he reap. What a man builds into body, nerve and mind that will be there when he draws on his reserve. No one can restore to him the years that the locusts of leisure and pleasure have eaten. He may, like Esau, seek his early blighted strength, nerve and decision, but he will not obtain it again though he yearn for it with tears and with training. This is the law of life. It is the law of character. In all life's battles the man who wishes to take a bond of fate and win must never "drop training" or cease from the struggle.—Philadelphia Press.

OLD SOLDIER

HAS FROM 11 TO 14 CENTS' WORTH OF FOOD A DAY

Although the colossal sum of $5,000,000 is carried by the sundry civil appropriation bill for the maintenance of soldiers' homes, the republicans are forcing the old soldiers of the nation to subsist on from 11 to 14 cents' worth of food per day.

An inspector of the war department reported that the food in the soldiers' homes was no more in quantity than that supplied to prisoners in the federal penitentiaries.

An idea of the wasteful methods employed in conducting the homes may be had from the fact that, although the cost of maintenance more than doubled in 10 years between 1898 and 1908, the number of soldiers cared for had increased but 7 per cent.

"Let your imagination spread this outlay of 14 cents over a day's food supply," suggested Representative Cox of Ohio, "and you have an accurate picture of how the nation's heroes are being fed. Observe the evening meal, and you will appreciate what it was that moved Inspector Brewster to pity and inspired his recommendation that there be at least a bowl of milk added to the scant evening fare."—Johnstown Democrat.

DOLLAR BILLS

BAD ONES IN CIRCULATION IN NUTMEG STATE

The Bridgeport Post gives warning of a counterfeit dollar note in circulation throughout Connecticut. Current in a neighbor state, the spurious medium is thus brought near home. It might be as well for Brocktonians to keep their eyes open. The fact that the note is not of large denomination, is less apt to be noticed when presented with numerous others. Large bills are not so frequently offered that way. Then, too, the smaller bill or coin, circulating more largely among the masses of the people, for this reason possesses powers of working greater hardship upon those who are less able to bear it. A bad dollar bill may be worse in this respect than a bad ten dollar bill. A bad "twenty" may not have a chance to default where a bad "one" or "two" may have scores of chances. The same reasoning applies to bogus fractional currency, always an ugly proposition for the government to deal with, and offering peculiar lay profit to the crooks who produce it.

The bad bill which is reported from Bridgeport is described in such a way as to make detection easy, if one is on the alert. The paper is said to be thick and the engraving coarse. The regulation color is there, and the lines in the paper that mark good money. But these are offset by the affected grain of the paper and the features of Grant and Lincoln are indistinct. It will not do any harm at all to be on the lookout at this early stage when the evil can be easily headed off if it shows signs of reaching beyond the Connecticut borders.—Brooklyn Times.

SANE FOURTH CELEBRATION

New Englanders who attend the annual Playground Congress which is to be held in Rochester, N. Y., June 7-11, will probably bring back some novel ideas concerning the possibilities which lie in the celebration of a sane and safe Fourth.

Ways by which the Fourth may be made a happy one for children and its dangers eliminated will be discussed. National authorities "on" playgrounds recognize that wide speeches and oratory may be all very well to interest the adults, such things can never with the child take the place of the old-time noisy and dangerous Fourth.

Lee F. Hammer of the Russell Sage Foundation points out that it is necessary to connect programs in which children shall have an active part. The fireworks set off by experts at night will take care of the evening, but for the day celebration there should be hundreds of parades as children always like to march, and the singing of patriotic songs. Then at exactly twelve o'clock the bells are ringing and each child should release a toy balloon with an American flag attached.

Kite flying contests in different parts of the cities to see which child can send the kite highest and similar amusements would make the day pass pleasantly and safely.

LADIES' NIGHT

Conducted by Ancient York Lodge

Ancient York Lodge, A. F. and A. M., held a ladies' night last night at its quarters in the Masonic temple. There about 150 ladies present and the affair proved to be a very enjoyable one. During the early part of the evening there was a reception after which an entertainment was held and supper followed.

The members met at four o'clock yesterday afternoon in special session and during the meeting the third degree was conferred.

At seven o'clock the members and guests met at the hall and the reception was held. In the receiving line were Senior Warden Dexter Morrill and Mrs. Morrill, Past Master Herbert E. Fletcher and Mrs. Fletcher, and Past Master Harry G. Pollard and Mrs. Pollard. The reception lasted for a half hour, following which the guests, directed by Marshal Henry J. Fay, marched to the banquet hall, where supper was served.

At the conclusion of supper a delightful entertainment by professional talent from Boston was given, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The program was as follows:

THE BACHELORS

TO HOLD FORTH IN ASSOCIATE HALL

The Twentieth Century Bachelor club minstrel troupe will hold the boards at Associate hall Friday evening, May 27. "The entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Mathew Temperance Institute and it promises to eclipse anything yet conducted by the popular institute."

The overture by the entire troupe will be seen for the first time and it is certainly a very "classy opener."

The middleman will be Charles D. Slattery, while the musical director is Professor Arthur Martel. The latter will give several piano selections, "The Boys of Uncle Sam," a beautiful song composed by Messrs. Martel and Long, will be one of the features. This will be sung by John J. Dalton. Another number that is sure to be a great drawing card will be given by the Glendale quartet. The Glendales will have several new pieces and it will be well worth the price of admission to go and hear them. Solos will be given by Martin Maguire, William Gookin, Edward Shea, Frank Connor and Henry Curry and some great comedy will be furnished by the six and men.

The program in full is as follows:

Opening chorus Entire company
Business is Business George Rogers
Love Light Martin Maguire
I'm Going Home Thomas Corbett
Meet Me in Dreamland Frank Connor
None of Them Got Anything William Warren
Norah Malone Ed. Shea
You'll Come Back Charles Deane
Selections, Glendale quartet: Messrs. Maguire, Golden, Curry, McNulty.
Steth Song William Gookin
You Ain't Talking to Me Frank McCartin
Sons of Uncle Sam John J. Dalton
Black Salome Luke McDonald
Grand Finale, Betsy Ross, (Solo by Henry Curry.) Twentieth Century Bachelor Club, 30 voices.

Music will be by the Middlesex orchestra. James Rankin, the energetic secretary of the "Mats," is working hard for the success of Friday evening's show.

CANADIAN MARATHON DERBY

TORONTO, Ont., May 25.—Wood of Montreal won the second Canadian Marathon derby here last night in fast time. Hans Johner was second, and Reuben, the Finlander, third. St. Ives finished fourth. Wood's time was 2:34.10 2-5.

DEGREE FOR PRES. TAFT

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Taft is to receive on June 18 the honorary degree of doctor of jurisprudence from the College of St. Thomas at Villanova, Pa. On June 22 he will attend commencement exercises at Yale.

GLENN CURTIS

To Attempt Most Ambitious Flight

NEW YORK, May 25.—Glenn H. Curtiss will attempt on Thursday the most ambitious flight over the water that has been essayed in an aeroplane. Under the terms of competition offered by the New York World he will try to fly from Albany to New York with one stop, although two stops are allowed.

For the last six months Curtiss has been maneuvering for the prize of $10,000 offered by the World, for a flight from New York to Albany or reverse, with one stop. Recently he has been conducting experiments in determining the ability of his latest model to light on the water and float without upsetting.

Curtiss will start from Rensselaer island, below the bridges, across the Hudson at Albany, probably about 1 o'clock Thursday morning. If weather conditions favor, he expects to break his flight somewhere in the neighborhood of Poughkeepsie. His machine will weigh 1000 pounds, including the weight of the pilot, 145 pounds. It was originally desired to start from New York, but the reports of the weather show that northerly winds make up 25 per cent of all air that blow from the point of the compass.

The distance by rail is 142 miles, but by water it is estimated by river captains that, allowing for cut offs, which Curtiss will make, cross bends of the river, 150 miles, will be a more accurate measurement. The longest cross country flight officially recorded is 112 miles, made by Paulhan on April 18, 1910, from Orleans to Arcis-sur-Aube. In his interrupted flight from London to Manchester, a distance of 135 miles, Paulhan flew from Hantsstead Heath, London, to Litchfield, 117 miles, in the first leg of his journey, and finished with a spin of 63 miles the next morning.

Curtiss now holds the international record for speed, which he won at the international aviation meet last summer at Rheims, France. Since then he has also established new records for quick starting and short starting.

FRANTIC MOTHER

FOUND HER CHILD DEAD IN BATH TUB

NEW YORK, May 25.—The effort of a small boy to amuse a neighbor's baby led to the infant's death in a tub of hot water yesterday afternoon. The little victim was Alice Alliger, 10 months old. The police say that while Mrs. Alliger was hanging out clothes in the yard, Robert Cornish, although only five years old, turned on the water in the bath tub and lifted the baby up to watch it run. The baby slipped from his arms and the boy, frightened, ran home. The infant was dead when found by the frantic mother.

HAIR REMOVERS ARE DANGEROUS

Physicians Say: "Don't Use Poisonous Depilatories."

The extravagant claims recently made by unscrupulous manufacturers of hair removers in sensational advertisements, unhesitatingly justify physicians in cautioning the public against the use of this class of depilatories. How many people have been enticed into using these depilatories, and how many have suffered consequent injury to themselves, cannot be estimated, but only guessed at.

The depilatories above referred to are invariably in the form of creamy pastes, which are to be spread upon the skin to remain until they dry. These contain a chemical which cannot be dissolved, therefore cannot be absorbed by the skin. The very fact that you are told to leave these depilatories on the skin until they dry and cake and then lift off with a knife is proof positive that they are not absorbed. If they are why do they still remain on the skin? The most they can possibly do is to remove the surface hair, which in consequence will reappear thicker and thicker after each removal.

There is only one logical and scientific way to remove hair, and that is by means of a liquid containing soluble ingredients which can be absorbed by the skin. DeMiracle, known all the world over as the only real super depilatory, is just such a preparation. It is easily and quickly absorbed, and after you have used it you will not have anything left on the skin. It forces the skin free from irritation, and what is more to the point it is absolutely non-poisonous, therefore it won't produce any danger of blood poisoning. Remember, no matter what claims are made to the contrary, no poisonous, nasty compound has ever been introduced to reach the hair root, and we can prove it.

Beware of the fake free advertisers and others. Don't be deceived by them. Better it won't succeed, than DeMiracle is sold by A. G. Pollard Co. We will send you a 52-page booklet containing full information concerning this remarkable treatment, as well as testimonials of prominent physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and the principal magazines. You should read this booklet before you try anything. OUR FOREIGN TRADE

Details of the April trade of the United States with the principal countries and grand divisions of the world have just been completed by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. They show increased importations from all the grand divisions, and nearly all the important countries, especially countries supplying material for use in manufacturing, of which the importations show big increases for 1910 compared with 1909. Exports show a falling off in totals to those countries forming the principal markets for foodstuffs, but an increase to those countries forming markets for manufactures. Thus to Belgium, France, Germany, The Netherlands and the United Kingdom the value of exports shows a decline, while to Argentina, Australia, Cuba, Mexico and Canada the value of the exports shows a marked increase, especially to Canada, to which the figures show an increase of more than 33 per cent, both in the month of April and the ten months ending with April.

WANT PARK LAND

Great Appeal for Purchase of Livingston Land in Highlands

Prominent Citizens, Educators and Public Officials Appear Before Joint Convention of the City Council in Favor of Park Scheme—Common Council in All Night Session Elected Solomon S. Mayberry for Principal Assessor

The city hall was a very busy place last night and the members of the lower board did not leave the hall this morning until almost break of day. They were balloting for a principal assessor, to succeed the late Abel Wheeler, and after a deal of canvassing and on the fifth ballot they elected Solomon S. Mayberry, former superintendent of the charity department. It was after 3 o'clock when Mr. Mayberry was declared elected on the part of the common council. The aldermen did not vote on the question of electing a principal assessor. They did not feel like waiting until the cock crowed for the councilmen to make a choice. Warren F. Sanborn was the aldermen's choice at their last meeting.

Park Land Hearing

The hearing on the petition of Geo. L. Hooper and others for the purchase by the city of the Livingston land in the Highlands, for park purposes, filled the councilmanic chamber with men and women in favor of the proposition and the hearing at the joint convention of both boards brought out a goodly number of speakers.

George L. Hooper was the first speaker. He said: "It seems that there need be but little said. It seems that the city needs the Livingston land for a park and playground in that section of the city. The space which that land occupies contains about 25 acres and it can be purchased for about $12,000. Land in that section has sold for 10, 12 and 14 cents a foot. The city council cannot well deny the request of the petitioners in this matter."

Park Commissioner Greene

Hurvey R. Greene, of the park commission, was introduced by Mr. Hooper as one who would furnish data and Mr. Greene used a plan that rested on an easel in full view of all present. He traced the boundaries of the land in question, pointing out the high rolling land, the meadow land and the spots for playgrounds, tennis courts and spots of the beauty of the trees. He said the trees were of a varied kind including almost all of the native list. He said it was already adapted by nature, as a park. With a little touching up, he said, Lowell would have a park second to none in New England. Mr. Greene then called attention to park lands in other cities to show that Lowell was very far behind and ranks very low in park area. He called attention to the growth of the city for the last five years.

Worcester has 1072 acres of park land; Toledo, O., 1100; Hartford, Conn., 1335; Los Angeles, 3015; Lynn, 2447; New Haven, 1154; and Lowell 72 acres. Boston has 137 acres for every 10,000 inhabitants, Washington has 130; Hartford has 167; Providence, R. I., has 23; Worcester has 90; Kansas City has 116 and Lowell has seven acres to every 10,000 inhabitants. He spoke also of the issuance of building permits in various parts of the city. In the five years between and inclusive of 1905 and 1909 the Highlands had 329 permits with a total valuation of $564,716; Centralville had 263 permits, with a total valuation of $39,920 and Belvidere had 133 permits with a total valuation of $459,910.

"As individuals, not as members of the park commission, we ought to give the members of that commission some consideration, and the commission has recommended the purchase of the land in question. You would find that this park would be used more by the people of Middlesex street and Broadway than by the people of the Highlands. We are not selfish in this matter. A public park is for the people, and for all the people."

Superintendent of Schools

Supr. A. K. Whitcomb said he was

MR. MAN

That buys the coal, did it ever occur to you that to be a successful coal man, in the full sense of the word, you must have practical experience? Let us understand one another. The money that started me in the coal business I earned myself, shoveling and teaming coal right here in your own city. Today my coal yard and facilities for handling coal are second to none in this city. I know what coal is, and what coal is not; I know what to buy, and what not to buy; that means my customers do not have to suffer for my mistakes. I do not tell my men, go and do it, I say, come and do it; that means you hire your own foreman in place of the coal dealer, hiring him for you. When you are about to place your coal orders, think this matter over.

Mail and telephone orders will receive immediate attention.

glad to indorse all that Mr. Greene had said. Mr. Whitcomb said he was more interested in playgrounds than in parks. He said the country had certainly come to believe in playgrounds. The feeling, he said, was sweeping the country like a tidal wave. He spoke of the recent choir festival and said it showed that the hearts of the people were in the work.

"The time is certain to come," he said, "when we will need a school in the vicinity of the land in question. There is no immediate call for a school there, but another grammar school will be required and a portion of the land in question would make an ideal location. We can get the land now for about one cent a foot and we ought not to miss the opportunity."

Textile School Trustees

Mr. James T. Smith, of the Lowell Textile school, said he was an enthusiast on the question of parks and playgrounds and he did not believe the city could spend money more wisely than for these purposes.

Grammar School Principal

Principal Charles Morey of the High-land school spoke in favor of the proposition of a park and playgrounds for the Highlands. He said the boys were suffering for ball grounds in that section. He said the nature of the land was such that a safe swimming pool could be provided. He said the time was coming when the boy or girl would not be allowed to graduate until he or she had learned to swim. He said that to learn to swim was already compulsory in other cities. "The land in question," he said, "is ideal for park and playground purposes. There are trees and shrubs there such as are not found elsewhere."

Albert J. Ryan

Mr. Albert J. Ryan was introduced, and said that he had been authorized by persons owning land between Princeton and Westford streets to say that they would donate land enough to connect the Livingston park land and Tyler park.

Rev. A. Frederic Dannels

Rev. A. Frederic Dannels, pastor of the Highland Congregational church, favored a place where hundreds of boys in the Highlands might play ball. He also spoke of the boon to the naturalistic side of many children which would be developed by the acquisition of this land. Twenty different kinds of birds had been found on this tract of land and among them were grosbeaks, orioles, kingfishers, etc.

Spoke For Brother

Miss Spear spoke for a "brother who couldn't find any place to play." He said again and again wished for a place but as years went on, the playgrounds became more restricted. She favored a park and playground for the many boys just like her brother.

Y. M. C. A. Secretary

Dr. D. B. Yarnell, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who is familiar with the playground movement, emphasized the right of children to play, and said that as time went on the facilities for play became more restricted.

Principal Durgin

Cyrus A. Durgin, principal of the state normal school, said that Broadway and Westford street converge near the proposed park land. Between the North common and this spot going west there is no other playground, except Thompson's field, which is a dangerous place.

"You have but 12 acres for park purposes and 15,000 children to cater to; we are doing very little for our boys and girls. This isn't a park for the Highlands; it's a park for the whole of Lowell."

Other speakers in favor of the proposition included Frank Hanchett, Lieut. Commander George R. Scribner, Lewis E. MacFarlane, Herbert C. Taft, George Bowers, Frank Haynes, Mrs. Frederick Spaulding, M. C. True, Chas. Stickney and Dr. Taylor. No remonstrants.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Alderman Gray called to order at 8 o'clock. The board voted a loan of $10,000 for improvements in public buildings.

A communication requesting the city government to review Gen. Adelbert Ames camp on Memorial day was read and the invitation was accepted.

Several routine recommendations from the committee on streets were adopted.

The order introduced by Alderman Adams with reference to notification by the police department of defects in streets following excavations was adopted.

The adverse report of the committee on appropriations, on the question of $4000 for an increase of street labor wages was adopted, 4 to 5. Alderman Adams was the only republican who voted for the increase. Alderman Connors moved reconsideration at the next meeting.

The order for $10,000 for improvements as recommended by the committee on appropriations was brought up.

Alderman Carmichael asked for information from the committee on appropriations relative to the item of $1500 for the whitewashing or kalsomining at the high school, as recommended by the committee. He also wanted information concerning the $1000 item for school yard grading and the $500 for a bathroom in an engine house. He said he did not believe in borrowing money for these purposes. They did not appeal to him as permanent improvements and he did not believe in borrowing money for anything except permanent improvements.

Alderman Byam, as member of the committee on appropriations, explained that the money for the high school would be required to fix the ceiling and that only part of it would be used for kalsomining. He said that the ceilings at the high school were in a bad way.

As the common council was ready for a joint convention at this point, the board suspended business.

Upon reconvening, the board took up the question of fire house and other repairs involving a cost of about $10,000. Chairman Qua of the lands and buildings committee made a statement in explanation of the proposed cost. He thought that there would be no loans necessary in the future for repairs included in the order.

Col. Carmichael then moved to recommit the order for a loan of $10,000, and Alderman Connors seconded.

Alderman Breunher thought it proper to refer the order back to the committee. Then, Alderman Carmichael said he did not want to retard the work, and he would move that $4200 be substituted for $10,000, his idea being that the Warren street engine house and the Bartlett school retaining wall be attended to. Alderman Gray ruled that the motion to re-commit would have to be withdrawn, and this was agreed to by Alderman Carmichael.

The order was then considered at an intermission and Alderman Carmichael drew up an amended order to provide for $7000, of which $3200 for the Warren street engine house, $3000 for improvements at the city farm, and $500 for the retaining wall at the Bartlett school would be expended.

Alderman Connors seconded the motion to borrow $7000 instead of $10,000. Alderman Adams said that the lands and buildings committee had carefully considered the original order and had not made a snapshot recommendation. He said the high school, which was included in the $10,000 order, had long needed kalsomining.

The vote was put and it showed six to three against Alderman Carmichael's order, the three democrats voting in the minority.

On the question of a $10,000 loan, the vote came on an amendment by Alderman Qua that instead of "kalsomining," the words "plastering and kalsomining" be used with reference to work in the high school. The amendment was seconded and it became a vote, six to three.

The order for $3000 for moth extermination as recommended by the committee on appropriations was adopted. Adjourned.

COMMON COUNCIL

In the early stages of the common council meeting it did not appear as if there would be any choice for principal assessor. There was a deal of canvassing before the council was called to order.

A joint resolution to lay out and accept Marsh street was read and adopted. A joint resolution to buy out and accept Weed street was also adopted. Petitions that Lawrence street be widened and that Summit street be macadamized were read and referred.

A joint invitation to the city government to review the parade of the Spanish War Veterans, on the morning of May 30, was read and it was accepted on the part of the council.

A joint communication from the board of health, favoring the extension of Dunmer street to Merrimack street, was referred to the board of aldermen.

A joint order requiring public service corporations which cause defects in streets and sidewalks to repair them, was read, and the question of adhering to former action came up.

Mr. Davis moved that the council take reconsideration of its action in requesting the city solicitor to give an opinion as to the legality of the order. It was so voted, 14 to 3. Mr. Tracy moved that the order be laid on the table. The motion was lost. Mr. Gookin gave notice of reconsideration to be acted upon at the next meeting. The president ruled that the question was one of adoption. Mr. Gookin said he wanted the city solicitor to pass on the matter and he entered a motion, to that effect. Mr. Sullivan said the solicitor had been asked for an opinion at the last meeting. He wanted to know why the opinion hadn't been received. Mr. Gookin's motion was then put. It was defeated, 14 to 10. Mr. Gookin's notice of reconsideration was entered, but it was ruled down. President Jewett asked for a vote and on a rising vote the order was declared adopted, 14 voting for and none against.

The joint order to appropriate $2000 continued to page eight.

for a Fourth of July observance was read and tabled.

Mr. Sullivan moved that the order calling for $1500 for a Fourth observance be taken from the table and it was so voted.

Mr. Achin moved that the order be amended to $2000. It was so voted. Mr. Achin then asked for a roll call vote on the passage of the amended order. The order was defeated, 13 to 12. Mr. Gookin gave notice of reconsideration.

On motion of Councilman Chapman, the council proceeded to ballot for a principal assessor. There was no choice. Frank M. Drogan got 11; Warren F. Sanborn got 6; Arthur Bartlett got 2; Solomon S. Mayberry got 2; Fred W. Farnham got 3; Frank W. Cheney got 2 and Chas. C. Hartwell got 1. Mr. Elliott was absent.

At 11:15 a motion to adjourn was defeated and on motion of Mr. Achin another ballot was taken. There was still no choice. Mr. Sanborn gained a vote and Mr. Drogan still stood at 11. Bartlett got 3, Mayberry got 3 and Farnham 2.

At 11:25 a recess of 20 minutes was taken. One hour later, at just 12:25, the republicans came in after a long caucus.

When the council got down to business again, President Jewett read the joint order appropriating $3000 for moth extermination. It was adopted.

The joint order to borrow $10,000 for various repairs asked for by the lands and buildings department was read. It provides for sleeping rooms and repairs at the protective house, repairs to bathrooms in the fire houses, retaining wall for Bartlett school, plastering at high school and repairs at the city farm. The order was adopted without discussion.

Mr. McKenzie moved the third ballot for assessor, and it was so voted. Still no choice. Drogan lost one and had 10, Sanborn had 7, Farnham 2, Bartlett 3, Mayberry 3, and Cheney 1. Mr. Gookin switched from Drogan to Sanborn.

Mr. Gookin moved for a fourth ballot. Voted. There was no choice. Drogan 10, Sanborn 7, Mayberry 5, Bartlett 3, Farnham 1.

At 12:50, the graveyards still yawning, a recess of ten minutes was declared. The minutes were themselves into webs that spelled hours and finally the inner man made a holler. His demand was imperative, and sandwiches and coffee were gathered from the lunch carts.

The caucus ended at 2:12 o'clock, and at 2 o'clock Mr. Elliott, who had been detained at home through sickness in his family, arrived in the republican committee room and accompanied his brother republicans to the council chamber. On motion of Mr. Achin the council proceeded to take the fifth ballot for principal assessor, and Solomon Mayberry was elected. The vote was as follows:

Mayberry, 14; Farnham, 12, and Bartlett 1. All of the democrats and Mr. Bartlett voted for Farnham. McKenzie cast his vote for Bartlett.

The council adjourned at 2:15 o'clock.

BIG EVENT WILL BE HELD NEXT MONDAY

On the afternoon of May 30, the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum of St.

Patrick's church will hold its annual 10 mile run around the North common. Last year's event, it will be remembered, was a pronounced success, more than 6000 people witnessing the event. This year the arrangements will be the same, and, judging from the entries, the contest should be unusually interesting.

All of those who are to run have been in constant practice for a month past and excellent time is expected to be made. Of course, Maloney, last year's winner, is looked upon as a likely man to land first position. There are several others, however, whom their friends claim will push Maloney to his very limit to cross the tape first. The entries close Thursday night of this week.

The prizes, which are given by Mr.

AUTO RACE BILL

Reported Favorably After Protest by Varnum Avenue People

BOSTON, May 25.—Following a hearing yesterday the committee on roads and bridges of the legislature reported the bill of the Lowell automobile club, giving the authorities of Lowell and Tyngsboro authority to close certain streets and roads between Sept. 15 and 22 in connection with the motor car races of the Lowell Automobile club.

A warm opposition developed at the hearing before the committee. Residents of Varnum avenue appeared to protest against the closing of that avenue on the ground that it deprived them of their rights. They were represented by counsel and stated that, if necessary, the matter will be taken to the courts and fought out there.

For the petition George W. Cummings and John O. Heinze filed with the committee petitions bearing 50 signatures favoring the bill, while Senator Ellard, who presided, presented a petition containing signatures of 39 residents of Varnum avenue. Against these the remonstrants filed a petition of 22 residents of Varnum avenue.

Messrs. Cummings and Heinze stated that the races of last year were a great success and brought much business to Lowell. The majority of the people along the course favor the passage of the bill and the repetition of the races this year. Others who favored the bill were ex-Senator Hilton of Lowell, Senator Benjamin Lawrence and Jesse Butterfield, both of Tyngsboro.

In opposition, Attorney William A. Hogan said he represented 25 residents of Varnum avenue. He intends to question the right of the legislature to authorize the closing of the streets. The power of the legislature is limited by constitutional lines, he said. The bill is faulty in construction, in that it makes no provision for damages.

There is no authority which would permit the legislature to close the roads unless public necessity and convenience require it. It is an inconvenience to the men who work in the mills and who are prevented from getting to their work.

Last year, said Mr. Hogan, there were practice tests from 5 to 7 o'clock every morning for a week. The residents along the course were in constant danger and one man was killed. The remonstrants have no objection to a race on the boulevard, but do object to closing Varnum avenue.

Thomas Larkin, a resident of Varnum avenue, said he objected to having to pay 25 cents to get to his own home. Mr. Larkin said that last year he was kept from getting to his home for four hours. He had refused to use the tickets or to wear an "auctioneer's badge" on his coat. His garden was pulled up and destroyed, and the fire department gave him no satisfaction. If it hadn't been for the auto races the damage would not have been done.

In closing, Attorney Hogan said that Mr. Larkin was making his fight from principle and not for financial benefit. The auto races are not worth the one life which they cost last year. Mr. Tytus of Tyngsboro asked if Mr. Hogan would favor the bill if it is so drafted as to place responsibility for accidents. Mr. Hogan said this would improve the bill but he couldn't say his clients would be satisfied. He said it is impossible properly to patrol a ten-mile course which is open on both sides. He suggested that the committee interview the attorney general as to the constitutionality of such a bill before reporting it.

The hearing was then closed.

A Marvel For Sore Feet. Acts Right On

Sore Feet! Never After Using TIZ—Good-bye sore feet, aching feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelly feet, tired feet.

Good-bye corns, callouses and bunions and raw spots.

You've never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

It acts at once and makes the feet feel remarkably fresh and sore-proof.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous excretions which bring on soreness of the feet, cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

If you don't find all this true after trying a box of TIZ, you can get your money right back.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

WEIRD BASE BALL

Lowell Gets Eleven Runs in Two Innings

And Won by Score of 12 to 11—Lawrence Got Two Home Runs on First Two Balls That Tyler Pitched—Seven Pitchers Used in Game

LAWRENCE, May 25.—The Lawrence team is woefully weak in the box. That was clearly proven at Glen Forest yesterday afternoon, when, in a weird game of baseball, that rivaled the ragged exhibition put up in Lowell on Monday, Lawrence lost by the score of 12 to 11. Lawrence lost at Lowell on Monday principally because of poor fielding, but yesterday's game was an awful jolt to those who have been boasting about the great pitchers that Lawrence has. Grant and Maybohm had a beautiful chance to show whether or not they possess the goods and both fell down. Maybohm was the man who was sent in to save the day, but he blew up in the eighth and gave a very poor exhibition of control. Finlayson was finally called in. The game resembled Monday's in some respects. Lawrence had what looked like a good safe lead, only to see the visitors gradually crawl up and then go into the lead. It was heartbreaking to the Lawrence fans—but the few hundred Lowell rooters enjoyed the fun immensely.

When Lawrence started out with the two homers on the first two pitched balls, the local fans settled down to see their team reverse the result of Monday's battle. When Lawrence got up to five runs, while Lowell failed to see the home plate, there was nothing to it but Lawrence. Even when Pat Crisham made a mistake in the fifth inning and allowed Lowell a run by playing first instead of trying for the man at the plate, the fans did not think much of the run. When Lawrence came to bat in the last half and got the tally back the score was 6 to 1 in favor of Lawrence. No fan dreamed that Lawrence could lose then.

The Seventh Was Awful.

Lowell made four runs in the seventh and came within one tally of tying the score. Lawrence relieved the fans by scoring two in the latter half of this same inning. In the eighth, though, Lowell scored seven runs and led Lawrence 13 to 8. Lawrence got back three and with any kind of assistance from Myers or Kruger the score would have been tied in that inning. The eighth was positively the worst inning that has been played at Glen Forest. Lowell made seven tallies on two hits. Maybohm put the team in bad by passing three men in that inning. He could not locate the plate. The bags were filled when Finlayson took his turn on the rubber. There was no out. Pat Crisham and Finlayson contributed errors that figured in runs being scored.

Boultes Showed Up, Best

The game was the longest drawn out that has ever been played in a league contest here. Two and three quarter hours were consumed in playing nine innings. Both sides were weak in the box. Lowell used four twirlers and

Lawrence three. Lowell sent Boultes in, after he had played first and second, and he proved the man of the hour. In fact, Boultes was the only man of the seven who showed any form yesterday. Tyler and Grant were not there. Manager Smith of Lowell took Tyler out in the third, after he had been hit hard and had been as wild as a hawk.

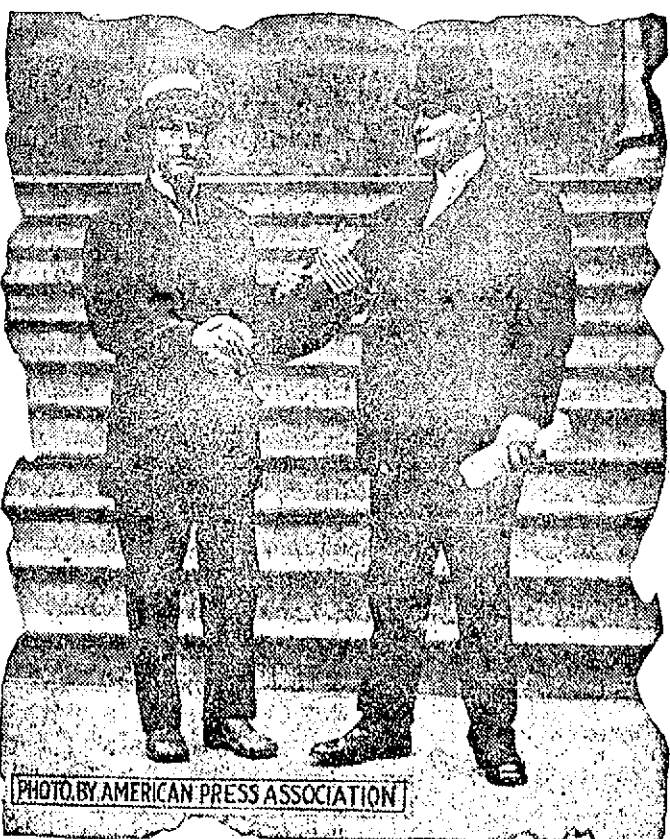

Grant managed to drag along until the seventh when Maybohm was sent in. Boultes replaced Tyler. He is a southpaw also. The first three pitchers used, Tyler, Boultes and Grant, were left handers, and they did not succeed very well in locating the pan. Grant was hit very hard in the seventh. Grant hit one player, Conney, but the runs made in this inning were made by good clean clouting. Grant had been hit hard in preceding innings and that ordinary observer could see that Grant was going to get "hit" before the game was finished. The Lowell fans had connected for three good hits before Grant was pulled out. Then Maybohm went in and Stovall, the first man up, hit him safe to left and two scored. The next man was out.

Maybohm Very Generous

Maybohm passed Boultes, Boultes and Fitzpatrick in the eighth. Finlayson was sent in in a delicate place. The bags were filled and there was none out. The players were on their nerve and the fans were bothered, too. Lowell fans were beginning to see visions of a repetition of Monday's game. Lawrence fans feared the same thing. The moments were intensely interesting. There was something doing. Ryan hit to Crisham, who had a splendid chance to help Lawrence out of the hole. He fell down. His throw to Trahan was bad and Boultes crossed the plate in safety. Conney hit to Myers, who made an attempt to touch third and then threw home. The runner to the plate was safe. The umpire called Fitzpatrick out at third on a force out. Fitzpatrick rebelled and was banished. The score was 8 to 7 and there was only one out. Magee walked. Finlayson hit to right and scored two. Lowell now led, 9 to 8. Stovall hit to Finlayson, who fumbled and there was another tally. Stovall stole second. Finlayson was on third. Delaney fanned. Boultes was up for the second time in the same inning and he hit to left. Two more runs went in. The score was now 12 to 3. Boultes fanned. Lawrence gave Lowell a scare in the latter half and at timely hit would have tied the score up. Finlayson doubled. He scored on Miller's single. Miller went to second on poor play by Stovall. Catterson popped to Ryan. Bannon walked. Myers fanned. Crisham doubled and two runs scored. Kruger was not there and he died to Ryan, leaving Crisham on second. Lowell then led 12 to 11. With two down in the ninth, Finlayson doubled and came within one tally of tying the score. Lawrence relieved the fans by scoring two in the latter half of this same inning. In the eighth, though, Lowell scored seven runs and led Lawrence 13 to 8. Lawrence got back three and with any kind of assistance from Myers or Kruger the score would have been tied in that inning. The eighth was positively the worst inning that has been played at Glen Forest. Lowell made seven tallies on two hits. Maybohm put the team in bad by passing three men in that inning. He could not locate the plate. The bags were filled when Finlayson took his turn on the rubber. There was no out. Pat Crisham and Finlayson contributed errors that figured in runs being scored.

JOHN ENNIS IS TRYING TO OUTHIKE WESTON

NEW YORK, May 25.—John Ennis, an old time pedestrian and all round athlete, started from city hall, New York city, at 9 o'clock on May 23 to walk across the continent in an effort to beat Edward Payson Weston's recent record. Ennis is 65 years old. He lives in Coney Island. In 1898 he de-

TO TRY FOR $10,000 PURSE FOR FLIGHT FROM NEW YORK TO ALBANY

NEW YORK, May 25.—Charles K. Hamilton is making his final plans for his flight from New York to Albany, June 6, in an effort to win a $10,000 prize offered by a New York paper for the first man who makes the flight between the two cities in an airship. Hamilton is confident that he will win the purse. The trip must be made within 24 hours, two landings being allowed.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The usual large crowd was in attendance at the Opera House last night, the occasion being amateur night, a Tuesday night feature of each week at this theatre that proves a potent drawing card. Today will be the last of the current bill, which includes Grace LaVillie and company in a loveable skit entitled "An Electric Doll," in which the popular Lowell comedian, Jimmie Callahan, is seen to excellent advantage. German and Langley, clever aerial artists; Mora and Richards in a pleasing singing program, and Florence Brown in pictorial melodrama. A strong list of feature motion pictures is a pleasing feature of an excellent program. Commencing Thursday afternoon and for the last three days of the week the program will include the Hub City Comedy Four, Scott and Dupree, singing, dancing and character change artists, Robinson and La Riva, comedy acrobats; Florence Brown in new songs and a series of the latest and best of the motion picture products. Prices at the Opera House are five and ten cents, and matinees are given every day from 2 to 5 and with two full shows at night.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Today is the last chance to see the American Cowboys at the Academy, as tomorrow there will be an entire change of vaudeville and pictures. The Cowboys are excellent singers and they find it hard to get off the stage on account of the number of encores they receive, so do not miss the opportunity of seeing them. Miss Winifred Green, a dainty little singer, dancer and quick change artist, will also bid farewell to Lowell.

Tonight is amateur night, and you should not miss seeing them. All kinds of amateurs old and young will hold forth, and a good time is assured all who see them. Admission 5 and 10 cents.

THEATRE VOYONS

Many plays are billed as strong serious, but the motion picture exceeds them all in number and in the strength of the moral lesson taught. "The Danger Line" at the Theatre Voyons today is an exceptionally good picture of domestic life showing first the unhappiness caused by a busy husband's neglect of his wife for his business and later their reconciliation. "A Race for a Bride," is an old legend well told and "An Indian Girl's Romance" is a pleasing Indian picture. "Marvelous Water" provides several real laughs, for it is a very good comedy. The musical features are the best to be had and are really high class.

OLIVER SPITZER

Admits He Was Party to Frauds

NEW YORK, May 25.—When Oliver Spitzer, former dock superintendent of the sugar trust, confessed in court to frauds he created the biggest sensation in the now famous trial. While his confession made on the witness stand, that he had been a party to the frauds, against the government, created a sensation, the attorneys for the government declare more startling information to under way and that the "higher up" are headed toward prison as the result of Spitzer's story. President Taft, it is said, heard the confession of Spitzer before he pardoned him from the Atlanta prison, where he had been serving a two years' sentence.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS ARE OFFERED BY THE LOWELL MERCHANTS FOR THURSDAY TRADING. SEE THE BARGAINS ADVERTISED IN TODAY'S SUN.

SECOND FLOOR

NEW YORK, May 25.—Harry P. Cline, holder of the world's 152 balk line billiard championship, will defend his title for the first time since gaining it from Albert Cutler against the young marvel, Willie Hoppe, at the New York theatre concert hall here May 26. The match is at 500 points, for the championship emblem and a side bet of $250. Hoppe relinquished the emblem to its owners after a disagreement over the terms of play several years ago. Since that time it has been in many hands. Calvin Demarest won the last open championship tournament, but was beaten in his first match by Albert Cutler. Cline in turn took Cutler into camp, and this is the Philadelphia's first stand in defense. Cline has been playing all corners in preparation for what is considered the hardest match he could arrange. Hoppe's practice has been in private, but there has been plenty of it. He is in grand form and expects to write "champion" after his name May 27.

CLINE

NEW YORK, May 25.—A fire that started on the second floor of the old Universalist church in Tyngsboro about 1:30 o'clock yesterday reduced the building to ashes. The church was sold at auction seven years ago and was purchased by Albin Sherburne, then a selectman of the town. Last July Mr. Sherburne sold the building to Daniel Shea of Tyngsboro and for the last three months the lower portion of the building has been occupied by Charles Allgrove who kept a meat and provision market. Mr. Allgrove estimates his loss at about $800 and Mr. Shea allows that his loss will exceed $1000. The building and contents were partially insured.

The building was 50 by 40 feet, three and one-half stories in front and an extra story in the rear. It was situated a short distance from the bridge and near Flint's box shop. Fred Andrews was first to discover the fire, and flames bursting their way through the windows attracted his attention.

Mr. Andrews gave the alarm and in a few minutes a gang of men from the box shop had stretched two lines of hose and two well directed streams were playing on the fire. Lowell was telephoned for assistance and the protective engine 2 with four horses, hose wagon from engine 5, hose 7 and First Assistant Engineer Norton responded. The fire, however, had things all its own way and the building was a mass of smouldering ruins when the apparatus arrived from Lowell, despite the fact that the auto fire patrol made the trip in 14 minutes.

ANNUAL REUNION

Of Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's Parish

The Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's parish held the second annual reunion and banquet in St. Patrick's school hall last night. The affair was a grand success and was attended by about three hundred members. It was hoped that Rev. William O'Brien, P. R., might be present but another engagement detained him. Though he was absent he was not forgotten for every speaker took occasion to pay tribute to the beloved pastor, and none forgot to speak a kind word in memory of the late Rev. Michael O'Brien, who was spiritual director of the society in its early days. The banquet was served at 6 o'clock and when the good things provided had been disposed of cigars were lighted and the diners listened to a most interesting program. The president of the society, Mr. Michael McDermott, called to order and introduced as toastmaster Mr. James O'Sullivan, who was given the grand reception. He spoke on the objects of the Holy Name Society and urged the members to be ever attentive to its aims. He then presented Mayor McMahon whose remarks were necessarily brief because he had another engagement to fulfill. The mayor expressed his pleasure at the success of the reunion and praised the work that the Holy Name Society has done in St. Patrick's parish and throughout the city.

Rev. Fr. Curtin, spiritual director of the society, was given a most cordial greeting when introduced by Toastmaster O'Sullivan.

Fr. Curtin told the members that the more loyal they are to the fulfillment of the promises they made when they became members of the Holy Name Society the better citizens they will be. He asked them to do their best in swelling the ranks of the organization and assured them every effort they put forth to promote reverence for the name of God would be rewarded.

Mr. Edward F. Slattery was also called upon and cited the public spirit displayed by men of St. Patrick's parish. He mentioned particularly the enterprise of Messrs. James and Humphrey O'Sullivan. The latter, he said, provided Lowell with the best Fourth of July demonstration, the finest St. Patrick's day parade and the greatest firework display that the city ever enjoyed. The address of the evening was delivered by Mr. John J. Murphy who spoke in part as follows:

"We are told that one of the evils of our age is a lack of veneration for things intended to fill us with reverence. It is said that not a few of those venerable practices from which our fathers drew their best impulses have either fallen into disuse among those of us who belong to a later generation, or are thought to be hardly worth while. Indeed, one has not to look with the eye of pessimism to see in present day occurrences tendencies that indicate to what an alarming extent the evil of irreverence has invaded our manners. In so far as we have allowed it to take hold of us and to spread, unchecked, we are responsible for a condition which cries aloud for correction. It is an evil, not solely because it tends to remove from civil life some of the elevating graces—it is an evil of more fatal consequences, because it strikes squarely at the heart of religion and society. Our religion cannot be real and effective if we grow indifferent to its sacred symbols; they were instituted as helps, to aid us in keeping whole our faith, and according as they decline in our esteem, or awaken any but devout emotions, our sense of the highest duties decreases. The binding moral ties relax, belief itself, being undermined, totters on its foundations, and as one by one the props that support our religious faith fall away, we sink into the abyss of doubt, thence to infidelity.

"As it is with religion, so is it with society. The interests of both are largely identical. The one is the basis of the other, so Burke says. How can we hope to continue a well ordered, law-respecting people, if we suffer to be extinguished within us those fine feelings which enable us to yield to prescriptive duties and time-honored customs? When such feelings no longer sway us, how can we render to magistracy and authority, that homage without which, magistracy soon loses its true dignity, and authority its salutary design?"

"As it is out of mind it has been an accepted maxim, that where the public falls by neglect in the common functions of piety, by degrees it ceases to revere its institutions and rulers, then decay is not far off. The collected experience of all ages to this effect is truth. Is it not then, of the very last importance, that we preserve in our innermost souls, those sacred, unruptured, springs of those deep, generous, reverential instincts? Reverence is not only a virtue—it is emblematic among virtues; on the other hand, irreverence is not alone an evil—it is the parent of a brood of lesser evils that are dangerous, because they operate insidiously while we scarcely suspect their presence.

"Though this evil has made its appearance among us, let us hope it is not incurable; let us hope it has not struck root so deeply that the axe cannot be laid upon it. That its present proportions will be gradually lessened, we have reason to believe, here in our parish and elsewhere, are men united under the banner of the holy name of our Saviour, who have taken up arms against it, and in the fact that they are combating it, with weapons forged in the armory of the church, is the surest hope its further progress will be arrested, and its eradication contemplated the aims of the Holy Name society; to do so is to feel, that notwithstanding we live in a period, when most things are valued, chiefly by their material worth, idealism has wholly abandoned us, that here in our midst it is cultivated with edifying results. Your society is doing this with unflinching zeal, a splendid object to do reverence to whatever is holy, it brings closer to our workaday affairs the softening influences of religion; it opposes itself as a barrier to erroneous doctrines which constantly assail our ears; it emphasizes the need of earnestness and regularity in the performance of pious duties; it inculcates the solid, homely virtues; it urges the practices of clean speech and right living; in short, it seeks to fix in the thoughts of men, the ideal of high-minded manhood—an endeavor not more praiseworthy than wise, for to cherish an ideal is the better part of wisdom. Ideals have a more practical importance than we are willing, sometimes, to grant them. They ennoble us. They shed a brightness on our humblest doings before which the humdrum of everyday life disappears. Under the magic of their sustaining influence the roughest path is made a royal road to peace and content. Our ideals can be just as real as we keep them pure and undimmed, they bring happiness into our lives—and a happy life is not the least useful one.

"No one can overstate the good that results from the work in which you are engaged; that good result, it will endure because it is being accomplished by the irresistible force of example. There is in good example a wide-spread beneficence we cannot measure. If its effect is not always visible, it is never lost. Nothing propagates more quickly or more abundantly than the example of manly action in shaping the conduct of men. It is of more consequence that the wisest system of laws we could write upon our statute books. Laws, though they be just and well devised are constraining, they are coercive. In good example, there is an inexpressible something that touches the chords of the finer nature; it invites our imitation; it gains our freewill admiration; in a word, it wins us by its intrinsic goodness. The example of one man persevering in an honorable endeavor is always a stimulus, a quickening influence for good, but when a considerable number of men unite, as the Holy Name society is united, in a work of uplift, they give to the world an ex-

LORD MANOR, No. 50,855

One of the best breeding horses in the country. This horse weighs 16.1, weighs 1240, and is safe and clever under all conditions. He is a superior driver, has splendid action, and is a horse of great nerve and style. He was driven an exhibition mile as a three year old in 2:20. His full sister Lady Kate, record 2:15 on a half mile track, won every race she started in, going six races in 18 days. She was sold under the hammer in the New York sale for $25,000 last January. With his rich breeding, and his splendid individual qualities, this horse is a breed winner. He will be sold only because the owner is unable to give the time necessary to handle a station standing for service. Hugh Cameron. Can be seen at Humphrey's stable, Gorham st., until Wednesday night.

This horse will be sold at Simpson's stables Thursday next, May 26, at 12 o'clock sharp.

Dr. Temple's

Treatment

Free to the Sick

THIS IS THE OFFER
Anyone applying for treatment at the office, 97 Central street, Mansur block, rooms 10, 11, 12, will be treated one week free, that is, without charge or compensation whatever for medicines, office treatment or advice. No money will be asked or accepted under any circumstances. This is absolutely and positively free to all sufferers with any form of a nervous or chronic disease of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder, blood or rectum. The offer is limited in time only. You must come this week.

THE FREE TREATMENT PLAN is not a philanthropic or charity offer, but simply a business proposition, made for the purpose of becoming quickly acquainted with the sick, to introduce this new and progressive method of treatment and to prove this wonderful system of healing. Therefore, all may call—the high, the low, the rich, the poor, without fear or favor. The doctor believes that the grateful感激ments of the many who will be relieved and cured will attract public attention to his office and system of treatment, and bring another pathway to repay for the great outlay and expense entailed by this offer.

Observe the days and hours which the Free Treatment is given: Monday and Wednesday, 10 a. m. to 12, 2 to 5, 7 to 9; Sunday, 10 to 12. At other days by appointment only.
